Growing Cuba Rebellion May Embroil U. S.

3 Guards of American Sugar Plant Are Found Slain.

Killing After Capture Blamed on Federal Commander.

Havana, Cuba, May 19 (U.P.). The rebel movement in central Cuba assumed serious proportions tonight and threatened indirectly to cause friction between the United States and the Cuban governments.

The bodies of three special police guards of the American-owned Jatibonico Sugar Central in Santa Clara Province were found lying in a field near the central after the men had been arrested by the rural guard for questioning in connection with the uprising. Company officials indicated they would complain to the Cuban government.

Federal Leader Blamed.

The killings were imputed in unofficial quarters to Maj. Arsenio Ortiz, commander of government forces in Santa Clara and Camaguey Provinces. Maj. Ortiz gained considerable notoriety eighteen months go by his ruthlessness in dealing with rebels in Oriente Province, where he was military governor.

Unusual precautions were adopted by the government to prevent the spread of the revolt to the capital during tomorrow's celebration of Cuba's independence day. The 2,000 Federal soldiers stationed here will remain in their barracks while 500 police will be held in readiness to assist in preventing disorders.

Havana Heavily Patrolled.

In Pinar del Rio Province, west of Havana, military vigilance was intensified. Scores of lookout posts were established along the coast to prevent rebel expeditions from landing. Military authorities at Pinar del Rio City arrested Adelberto Tosca, who was prominent in the Menocal revolt of 1931, and his two brothers on charges of revolutionary activities. Squads of soldiers patrolled the roads leading toward Havana, inspecting all vehicles for concealed arms.

Bill Insures Jobs Of Rail Employes

(Associated Press.)

Revised to insure workers their jobs at present wage scales, the administration's railroad reorganization-economy bill was favorably reported by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee yesterday and Chairman Dill said he would ask for early consideration.

Several amendments proposed by the carriers, shippers and short lines also were approved before the committee approved the bill.

Dill predicted a fight in the Senate on the amendment prohibiting dismissal of employes or the cutting of wages in carrying out orders of the railroad regional committees and the Federal coordinator, but said President Roosevelt had no objection to it.

The amendment was approved in committee after a bitter controversy.

Seabury Declines Bid as Candidate for New York Mayor.

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—Asserting that he had no desire "to capitalize on the results" of the investigation into former Mayor Walker's administration, Samual Seabury tonight declined to become a fusion candidate for mayor.

Seabury, who was chief counsel in the Hofstadter inquiry, expressed his belief in a statement that the city ticket could select the best qualified citizens.

"We have in this city," said Seabury, "a situation where Tammany Hall can be beaten, and beaten under such circumstances it will not be able to combat."

LABOR AND INDUSTRY BACK RECOVERY BILL

Spokesmen for Both Favor Sales Tax to Finance Public Works.

(Associated Press.)

Labor and business yesterday gave full indorsement to the administration's gigantic reemployment-industry control bill and approved financing a $3,300,000,000 public works bond issue with a general manufacturers' sales tax.

These views were expressed by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, to the House Ways and Means Committee, at the second day of hearings on the bill.

Green qualified his approval of the sales tax, however, with the provision that the sales levy be imposed during the present emergency for the public works bond issue only and with the stipulation that it be automatically ended when the revenue is not needed.

Asserting he favored repeal of the eighteenth amendment, Harriman said if that was brought about revenue on liquor would amount to between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000.

"I think the American people have enough common sense to bring about repeal within two years," Harriman said.

He referred to President Roosevelt's message to Congress on the legislation, asking for a tax levy until either the eighteenth amendment is repealed or until the Treasury can bear the interest burden on the public works bond issue.

"I think the manufacturers sales tax is the fairest item on the program and the most unfair is that tax on dividends, because that is double taxation, Harriman said, in discussing the four revenue programs submitted to the committee Thursday by Lewis W. Douglas, budget director.

Douglas suggested increases in normal income tax rates and the making of stock dividends, subject to the normal income taxes.

In hailing the measure as a forward step bringing about economic

Police Seek Sender Of 3 Dagger Notes

Joliet, Ill., May 19 (A.P.).—Chief of Police Nicholas Fornango tonight directed all available police to search for clews to the identity of the writers of three "dagger" notes to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde G. Calkins.

Last of the three notes warned Mrs. Calkins that she must not testify against a former maid whom she had arrested on charges of larceny, and threatened harm to her 5-year-old daughter, Shirley Mae. The maid, in jail awaiting trial, declared she knew nothing of the notes or their author, and that they evidently were intended to embarrass her.

The case became more complicated when Mrs. Calkins called Chief of Police Fornango and advised him that telephone wires leading from their home had been cut.

Teachers May Picket World's Fair for Pay

Chicago, May 19 (A.P.).—Leaders of the militant Chicago school teachers hinted today that they might picket the Century of Progress Exposition and the railway stations all summer if it would embarrass the city enough to bring teachers' pay checks up to date.

Paid four months' salaries in the last week, the teachers were still four months behind. They have been remunerated up to January 1.

J. W. HARRIMAN MISSING; NOTES OF SUICIDE LEFT

Head of Closed Bank, Due in Court Soon, Leaves Nursing Home.

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—Joseph W. Harriman wandered away today from the nursing home where he has been confined with a critical heart disease, and while police searched the city for him his attorney disclosed tonight that he left several notes to members of his family making it clear he intended to kill himself.

The 66-year-old banker was scheduled to go on trial in Federal Court Monday on charges of falsifying the books of the closed Harriman National Bank & Trust Co., which he founded in 1913.

Defends Stock Deals.

George S. Leisure, his attorney, made known the discovery of the suicide notes in a lengthy statement setting forth Harriman's physical and mental condition and defending his attempt to bolster the price of the bank's stock, for which purpose he is alleged to have made false entries of $1,661,170.

The statement did not disclose the contents of the notes or the identity of the addressees.

"A few minutes after Mr. Harriman had left," the statement read, "several notes, addressed to members of his family and to his friends, were found in a desk in his room, and the contents of these notes made it clear that Mr. Harriman intended to end his life.

Piers and Stations Watched.

"Mr. Harriman has been gravely ill for a long time not only physically, but mentally. He was aware that he was suffering from an acute and fatal disease of the heart and of the brain, and that there was no hope of his recovery."

Police and Federal agents searched the city and watched steamship piers and railroad stations all day.

He is under $25,000 bonds, and authorities said these would be forfeited if he failed to appear in court Monday.

Leisure reported the banker's absence, telling police that a doorman noticed Harriman leaving the hospital on East Sixty-first street shortly before noon.

Woodin Again Says He Will Not Resign

(Associated Press.)

Voicing anew his denial that he intended to resign, Secretary Woodin observed yesterday that a record seemed to have been set in going six days before the latest report sprang up that he intended to quit.

He denied such a rumor recently from his sick bed but it came up again Thursday.

"We have gone six days without it being reported I was going to resign and that is a real record," Woodin said. "I am in perfect health and hope to be here a long time. * * * I have no intention of resigning. Just deny it as emphatically as possible and perhaps this time we can go seven days without the report being revived."

President on Trip To Review Service

President Roosevelt will take advantage of his first overnight trip down the Potomac on the U. S. S. Sequoia this week-end to study the reorganization plan for the Federal service, it was announced yesterday at the White House.

The President will be accompanied by Budget Director Lewis Douglas, it was said. The reorganization plan, which provides mainly for the grouping together of all Government agencies dealing with transportation, was drawn up several weeks ago by Secretary of Commerce Roper.

It was said that President Roosevelt does not expect to be able to find time to visit the bonus camp at Fort Hunt. The Sequoia, with the President aboard, will probably sail some time this afternoon, returning late tomorrow.

Lumber Interests Meet Today on Recovery Plan

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt was notified yesterday by the National Lumber Manufacturers Association that action was being taken to draw up a "coordinated series of codes of fair competition" for his approval under the terms of the projected industrial control bill.

Wilson Compton, manager of the lumber association, in a letter sent to the White House, said lumber association officials from the West, South and North had been summoned to meet here today.

Reich Says Rearming Hinges on Paris Cuts

French Army to Remain at Present Strength; Economy Lost.

Paris, May 19 (A.P.).—The French government, after consideration of Chancellor Hitler's pronouncement regarding armaments, today made known its decision to put its trust in big battalions.

The decision was revealed when Premier Daladier refused to permit a further cut in war expenses.

The French army is strong, and must be kept strong, the premier told the Senate, which was considering the defense budget.

The Senate immediately approved this attitude by exempting the defense budget from a 5 per cent additional reduction.

Official circles expressed the view that Chancellor Hitler's speech before the Reichstag Wednesday had changed nothing as regards France's security requirement.

The premier voiced the hope before the Senate that the disarmament conference may achieve something, but for the present he said "we would be deluding ourselves if we slackened military preparations. Only the future can tell if other peoples are ready to disarm."

Geneva Gets 5-Year Plan Based on Slash in Attack Weapons.

(Copyright, 1933, by the United Press.)

Geneva, May 19 (U.P.).—Germany is prepared to accept a "five-year plan" for the transformation of her reichswehr into a conscript army and no rearmament if France will drastically reduce offensive weapons, it was learned authoritatively tonight.

Rudolph Nadolny, chief German delegate to the preliminary arms conference, pointed to Germany's "new attitude" of conciliation in announcing Berlin's willingness to accept the British plan not only for discussions at this preliminary arms parley, but for an ultimate world pact cutting down arms in every nation.

"Now you have further proof of Germany's moderation," Nadolny said in his speech to the reconvened conference. "We hope that the other states will bring a like contribution."

Norman H. Davis, the chief United States delegate, refrained from making his expected address at today's opening session, but indicated he would make the American contribution asked by the Germans at the session Monday.

SOVIET RECOGNITION IS VIEWED AS NEAR

Reply to President's Peace Appeal Interpreted as Receptive.

(United Press.)

The possibility of Russian recognition by the United States prior to the opening of the World Economic Conference June 12 was projected into the international picture last night as the Capital studied Moscow's reply to President Roosevelt's communication on peace.

While official word on the Soviet's acknowledgment of the President's appeal for political and economic peace among all nations was lacking, some unofficial quarters interpreted it as a document receptive to overtures for resumption of diplomatic relations.

The Soviet reply, signed by President Michail Kalinin of the All Union Central Executive Committee, was one of the lengthiest of the number received by the White House in response to messages addressed to the 54 nations that will participate in the London conference. In the opinion of political experts, it also was one of the most illuminating.

Some friends of the administration were of the belief that formal recognition was a possibility in the near future, arguing that such a step by the United States would tend to have the effect of promoting the program of the London conference.

Observers saw in Kalinin's declaration of Soviet international policy the carefully veiled hint to a recognition gesture on the part of America. In this connection one of the most significant sentences read as follows:

"The Soviet government has concluded nonaggression pacts with most of the countries with which it is in official relations and can, therefore only welcome your proposal for the conclusion of a pact of nonaggression by all countries. The same may be said of the Soviet government's policy with regard to economic peace."

WORLD SILVER PLAN ACCORD ANNOUNCED

Pittman Says Powers and U. S. Agree on Metal's Rehabilitation.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN

A broad agreement between the United States and the principal world powers upon necessity for rehabilitating the money power of silver was announced yesterday by Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada.

The subject is a major item of the agenda of the forthcoming London economic conference, the American delegation to which already includes Senator Pittman, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who long has been recognized as a vigorous advocate of silver monetization.

Simultaneously with this announcement, it was disclosed that Prof. James Harvey Rogers, of Yale, an authority on money and international exchange, is in Washington to confer with administration leaders on details of a silver and gold stabilization program to be presented at London by the American delegation.

At the Hotel Mayflower last night Prof. Rogers declined to discuss reports that a concerted plan for international bimetallism was under consideration. He acknowledge, however, that he had come here to consult officials concerning money policies. Prof. Rogers is author of an exhaustive treatise on the postwar workings of the gold standard, which attracted wide attention some two years ago. He is recognized as a vigorous champion of international ar-

Japanese Takes Picture Of Victim to Scaffold

San Quentin Prison, Calif., May 19 (A.P.).—Carrying to the scaffold a photograph of the 3-year-old girl he was convicted of murdering, Koji Hatamoto, 35, Los Engeles Japanese, was hanged here today.

The child, Mollie Kanda, was the daughter of Mrs. Ayako Kanda, 31, who is serving a life sentence here for the same slaying.

Mrs. Kanda, wife of a comparatively wealthy West Los Angeles gardening contractor, left her husband for Hatamoto, taking the child with her.

Navy Will Dismiss 200 Workers Here by July 1

Secretary Swanson Announces 10 Per Cent Slash of Personnel in City May be Extended to Employes Throughout Country.

More than 200 civilian employes of the Navy Department in Washington will be dropped by July 1, it was assured yesterday when Secretary of the Navy Swanson said that the local personnel would be reduced 10 per cent, with a possibility that the slash would extend to civil employes throughout the country.

There are 2,100 civil employes here, and about 210 of them will have to go, the Secretary said. The slash is a part of the economy program which is tying up one-third of the ships and reducing officer and enlisted personnel. The local employes to be dropped will be released by July 1 at the latest, it was indicated. A survey is being made of civilian employes in navy yards throughout the country to see how many of them can be dispensed with. This survey also will be completed by July 1.

It was learned unofficially that about 700 officers will be retired for reasons of economy, and that about 2,000 enlisted men will be released. The cut in the enlisted men depends on the working out of the rotative reserve for ships. The elimination of officers and men will continue in spite of the unsettled condition of disarmament negotiations.

The officers to be retired will be selected by an examining board headed up by Col. Henry L. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Every bureau of the Navy Department will be represented on this board, which will choose the officers to be retired by July 1.

HALF OF BONUS ARMY READY TO WORK IN WOODS

1,500 Sign for Camps While 500 Parade; President Seen.

Rapidly ridding itself of a cloak of contention, the 1933 bonus army at Fort Hunt, Va., last night was preparing to shed its tatters and tales of discontent for the denim working clothes of President Roosevelt's reforestation army.

While a scant one-sixth of the 3,000 men, bivouacked in sight of Mount Vernon, paraded sullenly to the White House and Capitol yesterday, the main body was signing up for jobs in the woods.

Although Albert G. Sellers and George Alman, "left wing" and hitherto controlling leaders, exhorted the men last night against falling in with the "system," their pleas fell on generally cold ears.

New Group Arrives.

Despite the fact camp will break up Monday, 286 veterans from New York arrived here early today, led by Patrick Hargrove. Their registration brought the total bonus marchers here to 4,100.

Hargrove said most of his men were willing to enter the reforestation camps.

John L. Sullivan, Distinguished Service Cross holder, who went with the right wing committee of Mike Thomas to see Mr. Roosevelt yesterday, told the men what the President said. However, his story disagreed with Sellers' quotation of the President.

Sellers declared the Chief Executive promised a veto of the bonus bill should it be passed. Sullivan said the President "didn't say anything of the kind," and added his own belief that the Chief Executive would approve a bill to help destitute veterans.

But while all this was going on and despite the chanting 500 who tramped through Washington yesterday, the movement was almost pell mell last night toward the reforestation camps. Fort Hunt is to be transformed Monday into a conditioning cantonment to get the veterans physically ready for the forest labor.

Capitol March Too Late.

Two hundred patient Washington police, themselves veterans of a dozen marches of various kinds, swung along from the Monument to the White House and to the Capitol with the "left wingers."

At the White House, the men halted outside while their committee, which had been preceded by Thomas, Sullivan and several right wing leaders, was received by the President in his executive office.

The three-point program, embracing besides the bonus and other veterans' matters, unemployment and farmers' relief, was presented and the committee reported they were dealt with frankly and satisfactorily.

Thence to the Capitol. But too late. Congress had quit for the day

Suicide Attempt Sequel to Holdup

Walter A. Smith, 27, of 217 F street northeast, who is said to have attempted suicide in his cell at the Essex, Md., jail yesterday after being "turned in" by a woman companion for a taxicab holdup in Cheverly, Md., was lodged in the Marlboro jail last night.

With Smith, when he was returned by a Prince Georges County constable, was Mrs. Pearl McCauley, 23, 1217 N street northeast.

Mrs. McCauley, police said, told Mrs. Edward Ringer, of Essex, a relative, with whom she and Smith were staying, to notify police her companion was wanted in Cheverly for the holdup of a taxicab driven by Andrew S. Borman, Colmar Manor, Md. She said she did it because she became conscience-stricken.

Peru and Colombia Settle Their 'War'

Lima, Peru, May 19 (U.P.).—Peru and Colombia have reached an agreement for settlement of their dispute over the port of Leticia in the upper Amazon region, it was announced tonight.

Leticia, ceded to Colombia by Peru several years ago, was captured by Peruvian irregulars last September. Since that time both countries have massed troops in the upper Amazon region and there have been several armed clashes.

Alfonso Lopez, Colombian political leader, came here this week at the invitation of his old friend, Peruvian President Oscar R. Benavides, to talk over a settlement of the problem. Steady progress has been reported since they began conferring Monday.

OIL CONTROL PLAN SENT TO CONGRESS

Secretary of Interior Would Be Empowered to Fix Prices and Wages.

(Associated Press.)

A comprehensive plan to end the depression for the oil and gas industry—a bill empowering the Secretary of Interior to fix prices, wages and hours of labor and to limit production to demand—was presented to Congress yesterday with at least the tacit approval of the administration.

It was drafted after weeks of study by a special committee including Secretary Ickes, of the Interior, and Representative Marland (Democrat), Oklahoma. Marland introduced the bill in the House and Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas, presented it in the Senate.

The bill's backers said President Roosevelt today will send a letter to Vice President Garner and Speaker Rainey approving the general principles of the measure. The letter had been expected yesterday.

The bill's future depends to a large extent upon the President's attitude. Marland said he would seek action promptly by the House Interstate Commerce Committee, to which it was referred. That committee now is in the midst of completing its work on two outstanding administration bills, the emergency railroad and security measures.

As introduced by Marland, the bill would remain operative two years and direct the Secretary of Interior to fix maximum and minimum prices to prevent unfair competition and "exploitation" of the consumer through excessive prices.

R. F. C. to Get Stock In Baltimore Bank

(Associated Press.)

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation last night announced its intention of purchasing $1,000,000 of preferred stock in the Baltimore National Bank, a new bank to succeed the Baltimore Trust Co.

A brief statement issued by the corporation follows:

"The board of directors of the R. F. C. yesterday authorized the purchase of $1,000,000 of preferred stock in the Baltimore National Bank, a new bank to succeed the Baltimore Trust Co. The preferred stock purchase is contingent on the subscription of a similar amount of common stock by those interested in the organization of the new bank."

Heavily Armed War Birds Soar Above Peiping.

Nationalist Rebellion Fails; Gen. Yuh Is Murdered.

Peiping, China, Saturday, May 20 (U.P.).—Residents here were panic-stricken at 9:30 a. m. today when eleven Japanese war planes, the eyes of the two Japanese armies rapidly advancing on this city and from the east and north, flew over Peiping.

Japanese planes have appeared over the city several times in recent days, but previously they had appeared singly.

The airplanes flew at a low altitude as they reconnoitered in three squadrons and it could be seen that each plane carried eight bombs and a machine gun.

Revolt at Tientsin.

Tientsin, China (Saturday), May 20 (A.P.).—Three Japanese bombing planes flew over Tientsin today, scouting a wide area.

Presumably they were from the Japanese aircraft carrier which arrived recently off Tangu, on the Yellow Sea coast east of here.

Tokyo (Saturday), May 20 (U.P.).—Revolt of Chinese Nationalist troops in Tientsin failed this morning when the public safety guard failed to join, dispatches to the News Service Nippon Dempo said.

Gen. Yuh Sueh-Chung, military commander of the north China city for the Nanking government, was assassinated and his troops joined the revolt, it was said.

Gen. Shek Hsang-Ming, a subordinate of Shek Yu-San, commander of the Chinese thirteenth route army, led the revolt.

In a proclamation he decreed severance of north China from the Nationalist government. He proclaimed a new north Chinese state to be known as "Huamin," meaning "China people."

Many Buildings Bombed.

The uprising caused bitter fighting for a time. Many buildings were reported bombed.

When the city safety guards refused to join, Shek Huang-Ming withdrew outside the city with his troops.

One hundred soldiers attached to the Chinese garrison were killed when the railroad station of the Chinese Eastern line was bombed, the dispatch said.

The entire city was in confusion during the fighting, with civilians fleeing, it was said.

Boundaries of the foreign concession were guarded by soldiers of the Japanese garrison during the bombing and fighting.

Shanghai (Saturday) May 20 (U.P.). Dispatches from Tientsin today declared two persons were killed and 36 wounded when the Tientsin railroad station was bombed. The dispatches made no mention of a revolt of Chinese soldiers.

Beer Flows Freely In Dry Texas Area

Austin, Tex., May 19 (A.P.).—Some sections of dry Texas, impatient to await a vote of the electorate on August 26, which will determine if this State shall legalize 3.2 beer, already have started openly the sale of the beverage.

Licenses issued by the United States Internal Revenue Department have been taken out by dealers in San Antonio and Galveston.

Walter Tynan, district attorney of Bexar County (San Antonio), said today he would not accept complaints against sellers of beer since grand juries there "have always refused to return indictments for liquor law violations and it would do no good to lay cases before them."

LOUDERBACK DENIES HE SHARED IN FEES

Witnesses Tell Senate Jurist Took No Money From Them for Jobs.

(Associated Press.)

An unqualified assertion that no share of the fees received by appointees of Federal Judge Harold Louderback went to him was put forward by the defense yesterday in pressing the campaign of the California jurist for acquittal by the Senate of impeachment charges.

One receiver and one attorney for a receiver named in the House indictments—all of which involve designation by the judge of such officials for his court—gave this information to senators in reply to questions by counsel for Louderback.

H. B. Hunter, receiver for the Russell-Colvin Brokerage Co., of San Francisco, said not a penny of the $40,000 fee he received was given to Judge Louderback or anybody else. Herbert Erskine, of the law firm representing Hunter, which received $51,250, said the same.

The House impeachment articles charged that Louderback removed Addison G. Strong as receiver in this case because he would not accept John D. Short, of the firm of Keyes & Erskine, as attorney, and that the fees allowed in the brokerage company receivership were excessive. Again the name of W. S. Leake, San Francisco dealer and intimate of the judge, cropped into the proceedings. Leake, now on his way to Washington to testify in answer to a Senate warrant, is credited by the House with recommending to Louderback the appointment of Hunter as receiver, and is charged with having received $1,200 through Short.

Hunter told the Senate that one evening as he returned to the lobby of the Fairmont Hotel, where he and Leake lived, Leake had asked him if he could serve as a receiver, and that he had accepted after discussing it with officials of Cavalier & Co., investment banking house where he was employed.

Too Huge, 33-Passenger Stolen Bus Is Abandoned

This must be the height of something or other. Certainly a person who steals a 33-passenger bus deserves special recognition.

A group of high school seniors from Camden and Matawan, N. J., came to Washington yesterday on a sight-seeing trip. As a climaxing feature, last night they went on a trip down the Potomac River. When they returned, one of their buses was missing. Police later found the bus in Union street southwest, several blocks from the wharves where it had been parked.

1,500 IN BONUS ARMY READY FOR FORESTS

and the stalwart police lines stood between the plaza of the legislative establishment and the tired marchers. So back went the bonus army minority to the camp on the Potomac.

Scrapple, tasty and hot; mashed potatoes, apple sauce, pickled beets, plenty of bread and good coffee soon occupied their attention.

When Sellers got up to talk, only about 500 men gathered to hear him inveigh against the reforestation army idea. The rest were in their cots or gathered in their own knots talking about the days to come—and there was hope and little disgruntlement among them.

Approximately 1,500 of the nearly 2,000 men at the camp last night had signed cards signifying willingness to don the uniform denim and heavy shoes of the forest camps.

Warm appreciation of the treatment received at the hands of President Roosevelt was expressed by Thomas' committee, which also included Ralph "Happy" Voigt, Eddie Tomlinson, John L. Sullivan and Maj. Bert Woods, all holders of valor decorations.

"We sat down around the President's desk and talked it over with him," said Voigt. "When we got up to go the first time he called us back and we talked for 15 minutes more."

Voigt, one of the most colorful of the bonus army, said the President inquired about his mother, who lives at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Today's business at the bonus camp, which expires tomorrow night under the agreement with the administration, included a convention for the organization of a permanent veterans' association.

Johnson Prepares to Take Business Supervision Post

White House Nettled by Leak About Soldier and Manufacturer's Selection to Enforce Industry Control Asked by President.

(Associated Press.)

Preparations to take over the broad powers of business supervisor under the pending industry control bill went forward yesterday at the office of Hugh S. Johnson, soldier and manufacturer, in spite of the refusal of the White House to make public announcement of his selection.

Johnson himself, who had confirmed after repeated questioning that he was considering whether he would accept, made no further statement.

Every indication was that he would be the administrator entrusted with the bill's authority to encourage, and compel if necessary, stabilized production, standardized hours of labor, maintenance or increased wages and establishment of a fair price scale.

Disturbed that news of Johnson's prospective appointment was published before Congress had acted on the industry measure, White House officials, speaking for the President, pointed out that no appointment could be made legally at this stage and said the place could not be and had not been offered to any one.

Johnson was installed in a temporary office in the State Department and with his assistants yesterday was examining details of the legislation which he helped draft.

Secretary Frances Perkins cited only this week the desire of the administration to get the legislation in operation at the earliest possible date and with this in view she was anticipating enactment by Congress. All available information on labor conditions and wages was being assembled from the Labor Department, she said, to aid the administration.

In addition to providing for the regulation of industry by the President or his agent, the legislation would authorize a $3,300,000,000 public works program for which a separate administrator is to be appointed.

PAYMENTS TO WIFE BY MITCHELL SHOWN

$3,000,000 Error Found in Ledger Record of Her Stock Dealings.

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—Consideration of whether Charles E. Mitchell had ever made any substantial cash gifts to his wife before she purchased from him, in December, 1929, 18,300 shares of National City Bank stock, occupied most of today's session of Mitchell's trial in Federal court on charges of income tax evasion.

Under redirect examination by United States Attorney George Z. Medalie, Edward Barrett, vice president of the National City Bank, which Mitchell formerly headed, said that the 18,300 shares transaction was entered in a ledger of Mrs. Mitchell's accounts.

Barrett testified that the purchase price was entered in the ledger at $879,600, although the price agreed on between Mitchell and his wife was $3,000,000 more than that.

Through an oversight on the part of his secretary, Barrett testified the figure agreed on by the Mitchells had been omitted from the ledger.

After bringing out that the ledger up to that time showed only one payment—$5,000 in September, 1924—listed as a gift, Medalie submitted to the jury just before court adjourned until Monday photostatic copies of memoranda showing that in 1931, Mrs. Mitchell received from her husband a total of $145,000 in payments ranging from $10,000 to $30,000.

Hospital's License Recall Is Postponed

After granting Dr. H. R. Street a private hearing yesterday, the District Commissioners withheld their decision on the recommended rescinding of the license of the Washington Cancer Sanitarium, 1414 Girard street northeast, pending further investigation.

Dr. Street, who with Dr. Sherwood Ferris, faces charges in Maryland in connection with the death of a woman cancer patient, produced several former patients at the hearing. These included Luther Long, Clyde D. Williams, father of Dr. Street's attorney, and Mrs. Lena F. Larner, an employe in the District tax assessor's office.

Dr. Thomas A. Groover and Dr. James P. Mitchell, X-ray specialist and surgeon, respectively, attended the hearing upon invitation of Health Officer William C. Fowler, who recommended the license revocation. Neither testified.

MARRINAN RESIGNS FROM MORGAN QUIZ

Chairman Fletcher Asserts Action on Eve of Probe Due to Low Pay.

(United Press.)

John Marrinan, special investigator for the Senate Banking Committee, resigned last night on the eve of the investigation into the operations of J. P. Morgan & Co., and other powerful private banking institutions.

Chairman Duncan U. Fletcher of the committee said Marrinan resigned because his salary of $255 a month was considered insufficient.

"He said in his letter that his salary was not sufficient to meet his expenses," Fletcher said. "I will not stand in the way of a man who wants to better his position."

The resignation will be submitted to the committee today, Fletcher said. He assumed it would be accepted.

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—Ferdinand Pecora, counsel to the Senate committee investigating stock market practices, announced tonight that preparations have been completed to present data on the activities of J. P. Morgan & Co. at public hearings to start in Washington probably next Tuesday.

At the same time Pecora disclosed that Albert H. Wiggin, former chairman of the Chase National Bank, and partners in Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Dillon, Read & Co., are to appear before the committee.

Subpenas returnable June 6 were served today on Otto H. Kahn, Sir William Wiseman, Benjamin J. Buttenwieser and Percy M. Stewart, of Kuhn, Loeb && Co. The Dillon, Read subpenas are returnable June 9. Robert O. Hayward and Robert E. Christie, jr., of this firm, were served today and Clarence Dillon, its head, has arranged to accept service Monday.

LABOR AND INDUSTRY INDORSE INDUSTRY CONTROL MEASURE

recovery, revival of industry, increases in employment and raises in wages, both Green and Harriman advocated removal of the limit of 30 per cent outright grants by the Federal Government to States, cities and towns for projects. The Federal Government, they said, should give the whole amount in order that small communities, where there is no employment, may be given work.

In opposing the proposed increase in the gasoline tax Harriman said, "This should be left to the States," and he added the so-called "breakfast tax" for levies on coffee, tea and cocoa were too high.

Harriman said he would prefer the launching of a $2,000,000,000 public works program, and opposed the recommendation by Green that the bill be amended to provide for a $5,000,000,000 public construction program. He added, however, he did not think the $400,000,000 allotment for highway construction was large enough.

Unqualified Approval Given.

"If wisely administered," he said, "so that production can be properly coordinated, I am convinced the full use of trade practice agreements will raise wages and purchasing power, stabilize production, and increase employment."

"Labor gives unqualified approval to this proposed legislation," Green said, provided two amendments he suggested strengthening the language outlawing "yellow dog" labor contracts and company unions were inserted.

"Along with its friends, it (labor) hails this suggested legislative step as a definite advance toward economic recovery," he added, predicting it would give work to 6,000,000 unemployed men, if properly administered.

Of "Utmost Importance."

Harriman said the President's proposal to bring about national industrial cooperation, increasing purchasing power and stabilized prices are constructive and are of the "utmost importance."

"The Nation-wide outbreak competition brought on by the depression has brought destruction of profits, successive wage cuts and industrial chaos," Harriman said.

In recommending the public works program be increased to $5,000,000,000, Green said by spreading construction throughout the country "industry would be revived and industrial recovery would be constructively promoted."

The position Green took, in view of the uncompromising attitude organized labor had taken against sales taxes for the operation of the Government, encouraged members of the committee who favor this form of raising revenue.

Wagner Leads Parade.

Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, led the parade of witnesses with the statement the advanced planning provision of the measure was very important.

Charles A. Collins, representing the American Automobile Association, said his organization "has consistently favored a general sales tax in preference to a series of excise taxes" and described the Douglas proposal for an increase in gasoline rates, as "another raid on gasoline taxes."

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, represented by Pyke Johnson, vice president, also protested, claiming that to impose a general sales tax on present excise levies on the automobile industry would constitute a "new super tax."

Dr. Irving Fisher, economist, of Yale University, advocated the issuance of "stamp money" to pay for the public works program.

"Make It Mandatory."

The measure was described as "passing the buck to President Roosevelt" by Benjamin C. Marsh, executive secretary of the people's lobby. "Make it mandatory and get something done," he said.

Amendments to the bill began coming into the Senate yesterday, with one by Fletcher (Democrat), Florida, and another by Nye (Republican), North Dakota.

Fletcher proposed to include in projects eligible docks and accessories to docks for merchant marine and national defense use.

Nye offered as an amendment his plan to increase sharply the income tax rates, to provide for levies ranging from $23,480 on $100,000 net income to 75 per cent of incomes over $1,000,000.

HOPKINS IS NAMED FEDERAL AID HEAD

Will Supervise Half Billion Dollar Task; 3 Other Appointments Made.

Four important Government posts, including the Assistant Secretaryship of the Treasury, were filled by President Roosevelt yesterday as speculation on the choice of a minister to the Irish Free State centered on W. W. McDowell, of Montana.

Harry L. Hopkins, of New York, was nominated by the President as Federal emergency relief administrator. He will supervise the distribution of the $500,000,000 recently voted by Congress for direct relief in the States. Gov. Lehman, of New York, is reported to have wanted Hopkins to remain there as State relief administrator, but he was finally drafted by the President.

Stephen B. Gibbons, of New York, was nominated Assistant Secretary of the Treasury to succeed Seymour Lowman in charge of the Coast Guard, customs and industrial alcohol. Herbert J. Drane, Representative from Florida from 1917 to 1933, was selected to fill a vacancy on the Federal Power Commission.

The President also announced yesterday that Dr. Arthur Morgan, president of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, had agreed to become head of the board to direct the new Muscle Shoals development. Dr. Morgan's experience includes flood control work along the Miami River, it was said. About 180 names are under consideration as the President seeks to name the other two members of the board.

Mr. McDowell, it was learned in a high quarter, is a leading candidate for selection as Minister to the Irish Free State. He is chairman of the Democratic State committee, of Montana.

The Senate yesterday confirmed the nomination of William A. Julian as Treasurer of the United States. Charles E. Jackson, secretary to Senator Smith, of South Carolina, was confirmed as deputy commissioner of fisheries.

(Associated Press.)

Chester Davis, former Montana Commissioner of Agriculture, will be appointed production administrator, in charge of relations with farmers to be undertaken under the new farm adjustment act.

The selection was made by Secretary Wallace and George N. Peek, chief administrator. It was accepted as an indication that reduction of acreage of basic commodities of which a surplus now is produced will be attempted definitely under the powers lodged in Wallace.

Furloughs for Officers In Army Are Protested

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt was urged yesterday by Senators Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Sheppard, of Texas, to sanction elimination from the independent offices bill of a clause for furloughing Army officers.

Senator Sheppard, chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, and Reed, a former chairman, argued that extra Army officers are now being employed in the Reforestation Corps, and no furloughs are needed. They said the President took their request under advisement.

Roosevelt Bids Soong Good Bye

(Associated Press.)

The problem of stilling the bombing guns of the Orient's undeclared war absorbed President Roosevelt last night as he bade farewell to China's envoy, T. V. Soong, and prepared for conferences with an official spokesman for the Tokyo government.

In addition, the Chief Executive kept in close touch with the developing arms reduction conference at Geneva, noted with interest a cordial reply from the Russian government in response to his appeal for peace, and refused to be disturbed by word from Paris that Premier Daladier had rejected a cut in military expenses with a declaration that the French army must be kept strong.

Press Club Will Celebrate House Warming Held in 1908

Tonight members of the National Press Club celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the first house-warming, held in the old F street quarters—when men were men and women's places were in the home.

That old-fashioned house warming started on the evening of May 18, 1908, the actual date, and ended on May 20—which is the reason why the Press Club celebrates the anniversary tonight.

Washington newspapers record the fact that all the town talent turned out years ago to give the newspapermen a grand send-off in their new quarters, a couple of back rooms over a jewelry shop.

In that opening party were such celebrities as the late Wilton Lackaye, Henry E. Dixey and Nat Goodwin, George O'Connor and Matt Horne, singing "My Cousin Caruso," were just getting a start in the world of entertainment. Tonight they will form one of the principal acts—restaging their first efforts of 25 years ago.

The house warming tonight is part of the silver jubilee celebration planned this year by the National Press Club, under the direction of Don Craig, a former president.

Raymond P. Brandt, president of the club, announces the following entertainment, with Avery Marks as master of ceremonies: Labert St. Clair in a comedy sketch; Maj. Charles Ferris, dialect comedian; Cliff Brooks, in a music hall sketch; Press Club historic movies, and dancing from 11 to 1 o'clock to the music of Leon Brusiloff's Music Masters. Joe Bourne will sing sea chanties, and there will be a little German band.

A young woman in California wrote him, yesterday, that she had heard about him, read about him, and seen pictures of him, and wanted his permission to name a Persian kitten after him. Col. Howe at once wrote her, giving permission and expressing his thanks.

At 1 p. m. following the presentation at the White House an open-air mass meeting will be held at Farragut Square. Speakers will include Miss Katherine Devereux Blake and Miss Edith E. The petitions have been secured through an appeal carried by the league to 38 States in a 30-day campaign concluding today.

The reception for the envoys will include a dinner at the Mayflower Hotel tonight at which Senator William E. Borah will be the chief speaker. Patrons at the dinner will be:

Doran Sets Hearings On Wine Regulations

(Associated Press.)

Complaints from the trade that the new regulations for distributing 3.2 per cent wine are too stringent have induced Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, to set hearings for next week to consider modifications.

Manufacturers, processors and retailers will be heard in connection with criticisms leveled principally against the provision that bottlers must qualify for bonded warehouse permits. Doran said the greater part of the wine under the 3.2 limit would be consumed in the manufacture of carbonated water products, in which full strength wine is diluted.

MRS. NORTON URGES AID IN MILK PROBE

Representative Asks District Group to Back Price Investigations.

The members of the House District Committee were urged yesterday by Representative Mary T. Norton, chairman of the committee, to lend their aid to the proposed Senate inquiry into milk prices in Washington.

At a meeting of the committee, Mrs. Norton expressed the belief that an independent investigation by a House committee is unnecessary, because the proposed inquiry by the Senate is in excellent hands.

Mrs. Norton expressed herself as in complete accord with the purposes of the suggested inquiry because of her belief that the milk prices and the system of distribution would bear scrutiny to determine whether there is a combination which is pegging prices.

Representative Jennings Randolph (Democrat), of West Virginia, who has become intensely interested in the high prices charged milk consumers, also urged that the House District Committee lend its support to the pending investigation.

The youthful member of the committee told of the wide difference in the retail prices of milk when Washington prices are compared with those of other large cities. He also is of the opinion that the prices of cream are exorbitant.

Representative Randolph has no complaint to make with the prices which are paid to the dairy farmer by the distributor, but is convinced that the price to the consumer is entirely out of proportion with the original cost to the milk dealer.

RELEASED BEGGAR SOUGHT AS SLAYER

Hour Too Late, Jail Finds Recent Inmate Was Wanted by Georgia.

An hour after James Shelton, 27, was released yesterday from the District Jail, where he had served a ten-day sentence for soliciting alms on the streets, police received a telegram saying that he was wanted in Georgia for breaking jail and murder.

The communication stated that Shelton, who uses various aliases, including Roy Gardner, Roy Garner and Frank Smith, escaped from the Georgia State prison farm at Milledgeville, several months ago and in his dash for liberty ran down and fatally injured G. E Williams, a trusty. It is also reported that he has a long criminal record, including desertion from the Army, and had served time in Leavenworth and Atlanta Federal prisons as well as several State penitentiaries.

He was committed to the District Jail in default of a $10 fine on the solicitation charge. Col. William L. Peak, superintendent of the jail, stated that Shelton was fingerprinted when he entered the jail and that his description was sent out by the Department of Justice.

Following receipt of the Georgia request to hold Shelton, police issued a radio broadcast which described Shelton as being 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighing 140 pounds, having sandy hair and wearing a faded tan suit.

Jews Gather Here Tonight To Protest Hitler's Course

400 National Delegates Will Challenge America to Assist in Restoring Hebrews to Equality in Germany; Session Closed to Public.

A challenge to the American people to unite in solemn protest against treatment of Jews in Germany will be the purpose of the American Jewish Congress which tonight will open a three-day emergency session at the Willard Hotel, it was said yesterday in a statement signed by leaders of American Jewry.

Four hundred delegates will convene for a discussion of measures to restore the Jews of Germany to a position of complete equality. The statement warns those who favor silence and surrender to the mistreatment of their race to stay away from the sessions.

Containing the signatures of Dr. Stephen Wise, honorary president of the congress, and Bernard Deutsch, president of the group, the statement follows, in part:

"Only such Jews will gather at Washington as believe in the policy of every manner of moral, political, economic and spiritual resistance against the anti-Jewish crime of Hitler. Hitler's war is not against German Jews. It is upon the Jews, Jews who happen to live in Germany. These victims of the Hitler war against Jews do not happen to be our brothers. They are our fellow Jews, and we would be less than men and Americans and Jews if we did not gather in solemn council to summon every resource at our command in defense of the Jew against Hitler and the Hitler-made war."

The sessions will open with an executive meeting tonight for delegates and alternates. The meeting will not be open to the public.

T. F. SHUEY, SENATE AID 65 YEARS, DEAD

Dean of Debate Reporters, 88, Saw All Inaugural Rites Since 1869.

Theodore F. Shuey, 88, dean of official reporters of debate in the Senate, died yesterday at his home near Staunton, Va.

Until a few weeks ago he was actively engaged in his work. He began his career at the Capitol 65 years ago. His first official duties were the recording of the proceedings of swearing in Schuyler Colfax, of Indiana, as Vice President in 1869. Since that time he has witnessed every inaugural ceremony at the Capitol.

Mr. Shuey once said he thought Senator Charles Sumner, of Massachusetts, was the greatest orator the Senate has seen in the last half century, although, he said, Senator John Sherman, of Ohio, was probably the most effective. He thought Vice President Dawes was one of the best presiding officers the Senate ever had.

On April 9 Mr. Shuey left Washington to go to his home at Swope, Va., for a much-needed rest. Until that time he had not missed a single day from his duties as official recorder of the Senate debate in 65 years. Senator Robinson said, "I doubt if in the history of this country there is a comparable record to that made by Mr. Shuey. His record is remarkable not alone for long service, but for notable and exceptional efficiency."

He is survived by his wife and two children, Mrs. Charles J. Kappler and Miss Dorothy Shuey. He is also survived by two children by a former marriage, Philip V. Shuey and Mrs. Agnes Scymmers.

Church Separation Scored by Pastor

Charging that the churches of this country are divided, and consequently are losing the attendance and faith of the people, Dr. Peter Ainslie, pastor of the Christian Church of Baltimore, addressing the forty-eighth annual conference and semicentennial of the Atlantic District of the Evangelical Synod of North America, stated that religion today has received a "tremendous jolt."

Speaking at the Concordia Lutheran Evangelical Church, where sessions of the conference will continue through Monday, Dr. Ainslie asserted that the church denominations are in as much confusion as are the politicians and economists.

Others who addressed the conference yesterday were the Rev. Charles Enders, Dr. Rufus Weaver and Dr. James D. Buhrer, pastor of the First Reformed Church.

A memorial service will be held by the conference at 9 a. m. today.

The following officers were elected: The Rev. F. C. Rueggeberg, of Baltimore, president; the Rev. Paul Briesemeister, of Schenectady, N. Y., vice president; the Rev. Henry Strub, of Williamsport, Pa., secretary, and Adam Friederich, of Orange, N. J., treasurer.

ROME TAKES LEAD IN DEBT DEMANDS

Goering Flies There From Germany as Duce Asks 80 Per Cent Cut.

Rome, May 19 (A.P.).—The center of world political activity shifted to Rome tonight as Premier Mussolini with German collaboration prepared to take the initiative in the next move to clear the international situation.

The surprise arrival of Hermann Goering, right-hand man to Chancellor Hitler, of Germany, and Italy's sudden firm stand for 80 per cent reduction of war debts gave added importance to the duce's position on the eve of the grand council meeting tomorrow.

At this meeting Signor Mussolini is expected to voice his opinions on important subjects with no sparing of words.

The presence of Herr Goering is generally construed as meaning that the Fascists and the Nazis will be in accord on whatever line of attack the duce elects to take.

Herr Goering arrived secretly this evening by airplane. He is believed to have brought personal assurances of support from Chancellor Hitler.

That Hitler's speech before the Reichstag has served to cement the Italo-German front more strongly than ever is evidenced by the reaction here. With this is coupled the moral support which the Brown Shirts and the Black Shirts believe they found in President Roosevelt's message. The result is new hope here that the Fascists and the Nazis in collaboration may be able to marshal world opinion on their side.

The Italian and German leaders feel themselves particularly aided by the fact that both have quickly and warmly approved the American suggestion for peace.

The Duce in his speech to the council is expected to take his stand with President Roosevelt in declaring that the time has come to put an end to quibbling if the world is to be saved from chaos.

It would not cause surprise if Premier Mussolini insisted upon his four-power plan as the most practicable means of stabilizing the European situation. Germany has already announced acceptance of the plan.

It is thought likely that the Duce will link his four-power plan with the MacDonald disarmament plan, which Italy and Germany, like America, have approved.

The injection of the war debts question prominently into the situation is taken as indicating Mussolini's belief that the solution of this problem is one of the most urgent prerequisites of any economic recovery.

The Duce has never departed from his original argument that total cancellation of debts is advisable. But there is an air of finality in the statement contained in the finance ministry's budgetary report to the chamber that a general 80 per cent reduction of all the allied debts to America is necessary.

Guido Jung, finance minister, who arrived yesterday from his conferences with President Roosevelt, will be present at the council meeting tomorrow.

The grand council meeting was originally scheduled for May 27, but was moved up one week in order to expedite consideration of President Roosevelt's recent proposals.

MILK STRIKE ENDS; GOVERNOR IS BOOED

Promises Relief as Hostile Farmers March Into Madison.

Madison, Wis., May 19 (A.P.).—A few hours after the Wisconsin milk strike ended, Gov. A. G. Schmedeman faced several thousand none too friendly farmers today and promised energetic efforts to solve the difficulties of agriculture in an orderly manner.

Speaking in the University of Wisconsin gymnasium to the farmers who descended on the capital unexpectedly in response to a secretly organized "march to Madison," the governor was greeted with some hostility as he entered with Adjt. Gen. Ralph M. Immell, target of many attacks of farm leaders, for his activities in suppressing strike disorders.

Mediators were in the governor's office arranging final details of the milk strike peace as the farmers reached Madison. Many in the gymnasium did not know that the controversy which had raged over the State six days had been called off. There was some booing as a squad cleared a path to the platform for the governor and his military chieftain.

But the governor was heard with attention.

"I promise you sincerely that I will do every thing in my power to see that you are again made happy and prosperous," Gov. Schmedeman said. "I know that you are a peaceful and law-abiding citizenry and that you are trying to bring before the people the nature of your plight."

The milk strike was called off early today by the arbitration committee of the Wisconsin milk pool after the governor had agreed to appoint a committee of five, three farmers and at least one a member of the pool, to investigate specific grievances of dairymen.

Mentality Test Planned On Confessed Fire Bug

Renaud was left in the custody of his father, Arsene Cote. Country Attorney Frank T. Bowers said permission of the parents would be sought for an examination of the boy by alienists.

appointment of Morgan, who brought Antioch College from a place of obscurity thirteen years ago to one of the best-known educational institutions in the country.

The educator will head the three-man board which will direct the huge Muscle Shoals-Tennessee Valley development project, legislation for which was signed only yesterday.

More than 150 names are before the President from which to select the two other members. He expects to make the appointments soon so that the work can get under way.

Under the measure the board, among other things, is authorized to build dams, power houses, reservoirs, irrigation projects, power plants, transmission lines and to manufacture experimental fertilizer.

Planning for the Muscle Shoals investigation, President Roosevelt is understood to have selected Huston Thompson, a special assistant to the Attorney General, to head the inquiry.

Both the Alabama Power Co. and the Tennessee Electric Power Co., against which the charges were made by an unnamed electrical engineer in a letter to Senator Norris (Republican), have denied the allegations and welcomed an inquiry.

WRIT FILED TO BAR NEW MOONEY TRIAL

Former Aid to Prosecutor Charges Quiz Unlawful and Expensive.

San Francisco, May 19 (A.P.).—An appeal to the State Supreme Court to prevent the trial of Thomas J. Mooney next Monday on a 17-year-old Preparedness Day bombing indictment was filed today by John O'Gara, University of San Francisco law professor and former assistant district attorney of San Francisco.

Acting as a citizen, a taxpayer and member of the bar, O'Gara petitioned the high court for a writ directing Superior Judge Louis H. Ward, who granted the trial, to dismiss the indictment against Mooney.

The petition declared the trial would be unlawful, would involve unnecessary expense to the taxpayers and would impair the rights of the people of California for "protection" of the original judgment obtained by them convicting Mooney in 1916.

O'Gara declared Mooney, if successful in obtaining a technical verdict of not guilty in the coming trial, will claim the new legal judgment supersedes the previous judgment of his guilt, and that Mooney would apply to the Federal court to compel California authorities to free him.

The action alleged that because the judge and district attorney are remaining passive, a verdict of not guilty is unquestionable.

Mooney has been brought to the county jail here from San Quentin Prison, and preparations have been completed for opening the trial Monday. In advance of the filing of O'Gara's action, the noted prisoner and his attorneys expressed the belief that the supreme court would deny O'Gara's plea.

Property Owners Test Paving Assessment Law

A test of the legal right of the District government to assess adjacent property owners in the vicinity of Tenth and Upshur streets northeast for paving and the laying of curbing was launched in District Supreme Court yesterday by Attorney George B. Fraser, who acted for Ernest N. Cox, 1015 Upshur street northeast, and 51 other residents of Upshur street and Urell place northeast.

The court was asked to issue an injunction against the proposed assessment on the ground that the assessments were made under authority of an act of Congress of February 20, 1931, which specified such assessments for all improvements "hereafter." The property owners declared their improvements were made in 1930, prior to the passage of the act.

WORLD ACCORD ANNOUNCED ON REHABILITATION OF SILVER

rangements looking to managed currencies pegged on silver and gold.

Further evidence that the bimetal standard is under serious consideration is found in the fact that the Bureau of Mines recently completed a special study of silver and gold production throughout the entire world since the middle of the fifteenth century.

Carefully checked surveys reveal that over a period of 440 years the total world production of silver was in the ratio of 15.7 to 1 with gold.

This ratio is approximately the figure which has been discussed with foreign statesmen in recent White House conferences as a possible basis of an international bimetallic standard.

Six-Point Agreement.

Senator Pittman has been with President Roosevelt in all of these preliminary monetary explorations with the visiting statesmen. His announcement yesterday of the six-point agreement between the world powers was widely interpreted as offering the possible basis for money stabilization negotiations at London.

His announcement came only a day after State Department officials had revealed they were working on an arrangement to stabilize money and international exchange before and during the London conference.

The first point upon which the preliminary conferences here have yielded a working agreement is that silver prices the world around shall be reasonably increased in relation to gold, and thereafter substantially stabilized by international action. It is agreed by all that the rehabilitation of silver is an inescapable part of the larger problem of currency stabilization. Roughly, three-fourths of the population of the world lives in countries operating on silver money base.

Formula Yet Unfound.

It has also been agreed by all countries participating in the preliminary conferences that the policy of debasing silver coins with alloys must be sharply restricted, and that the metallic fineness of coins already so debased shall be restored as rapidly as practicable.

Although there is somewhat general agreement that silver shall serve as a metal base for international exchange standards, no formula yet has been achieved for working out a universal gold-silver ratio.

It has been emphasized in the preliminary discussions, however, that with a general international agreement many of the complexities of a stable silver-gold ratio within any one country would disappear.

If silver and gold exchange at the same mint ratio in all countries the advantage of flight from one metal to the other will largely disappear.

Young May Be Selected For London Conference

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt last night pondered over a list of names from which he will select the American delegation to the London Economic Conference, a list upon which Owen D. Young, New York financier, is prominently mentioned.

In a quarter close to the Chief Executive it was said last night that Young had not been selected finally, but that Mr. Roosevelt was considering him strongly.

Senator Hiram Johnson, California Republican, who supported Roosevelt during the campaign, also was reported a probable choice for the delegation to London, but final word was lacking. Senator La Follette, Wisconsin Republican, also is on the list.

MARYLAND U. RAISES TUITION IN DISTRICT

New Schedule Calls for $50 More From Students of Washington.

An increased tuition rate for District of Columbia students attending the University of Maryland was adopted at the annual meeting of the board of regents.

The new schedule calls for an increase of $50 per year for students enrolled from Washington. The rate was recommended by the university faculty.

Under former rates, students from the District were admitted to the institution on the same basis as those from Maryland. The fixed schedule of $160 a year was boosted to $210, said by university officials to be $60 less than tuition charges at any other accredited college in the vicinity.

The $50 increase was also suggested by the Maryland State Senate following an investigation of the university's affairs last winter. The new rate will net the institution $50,000 more each year, on the basis of 600 Washington students at present enrolled.

The board of regents also approved the proposed construction of two new buildings on the College Park campus. A committee was appointed to select sites and complete arrangements.

Part of the proceeds of a construction bond, authorized by the State Legislature, will be used in erecting the new buildings. Work is expected to begin next fall.

The program calls for a new women's dormitory, costing $150,000 and a new classroom and laboratory building, at an estimated cost of $200,000.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY.

SALUTE TO THE BUDGETEERS.

WASHINGTON, with its beauty, its parks and its trees, the seat of the mighty, the mecca of international politicians, now seems to the average Government worker a city where the sun is slow in shining, and one where uncertainty, heartaches and discouragement have taken hold.

"Positions Not Under Civil Service" brought in its wake apprehension and disquietude. Later developments have taken heavy toll of manhood, womanhood, character and morale.

Some newspapers, regarded as friends of the downtrodden, by printing their "guesses" as to what employes of the different departments may expect in the way of reorganizations, dismissals and the like, have contributed much to the despair now present in the heart of those who, having lived from day to day, raising a family, and hoping to, some day, own their little home, now face separation from the service.

Their work has gone on, from year to year, unnoticed, and receiving neither praise nor recognition.

Their salaries have always been far below those paid by industry at large in similar lines of endeavor.

Their task has been to assimilate knowledge in a limited field only.

Their outgoing mail is not signed by them and they possess no personal business contacts. Theirs is, indeed, a difficult plight in an already difficult economic era.

Sleepless nights and days of mental agony must, therefore, be the reward of their years of toil.

It is proper that their parting words should be:

Ave Caesar, morituri te salutant!

CONGRATS to the young woman whose husband marches for Uncle Sam at $30 a month, less 15 per cent. She sticks. She's all smiles. She's been taken off the headsman's list. And salute to those who changed their course . . . Now we have assurance that the merit system is the stuff. That if you have merit you have no great worries. If that plan really is carried out—and let's hope it is—then we have fewer darts to aim at the headsmen . . . Allen M. Laster, printing and binding, Internal Revenue, accompanied by his daughters, Misses Hester and Jennie, spending a pleasant week-end with the Rev. and Mrs. James Hayden Laster, Ivyland, Pa. Also they attended Princeton Theological Seminary commencement exercises, May 16, when Mr. Laster's brother received his Th. B. degree . . . Something we never knew before—Hoyt Barnett, Commerce, is a cook par excellent . . . Soup's on, mostly on the pretty spring dress of Mary Jones, chief clerk's office, Commerce. Pity . . . Miss Louise La Combe, Farm Credit Administration, entertaining at contract, complimentary to Miss Alice Arnold (), Agriculture, and brother, Jack Arnold, New York. Mrs. Gladys Kastanek, Customs; Miss Frances Skelly, Prohibition; John Jordan, Dan Geary, Tom Kastanek (), Postoffice, and Miss Rita LaCombe, guests . . . Loud noise, office of the A. & I., Marine Corps. Mrs. Ann McGoldrick arriving with, and in, a new spring plaid dress. Maybe not enough to beat the band, but enough to thrill a brass band . . . It's been nigh on to nine years since Mrs. Ethel M. Twist (maybe you'll remember her by her former name) served in Navigation, Navy. She lives in Hamilton, Canada, now. She visited friends this week here . . . And did you know, while we speak of Navigation, that it was Mrs. Wilma S. Reid (*), 5028 Cathedral avenue northwest, personnel division, whose delightful flower garden and fish pond have been attracting such wide attention? . . . Then there is our friend in a Government department who remarks that "when you pay more for things with more money you haven't got, eventually you'll get more money." Help, Einstein! . . . Which reminds us, you'd better buy your new sealskins early this summer. The price already had tiptoed 22 per cent . . . Again, to remind you of that thriller in this column Sunday "Riches to Rags," a serial, with no reference to the milk price gouging . . . Marine Corps spring golf tournament, Kenwood yesterday, with these entered by foursomes:

Quartermaster Sergeant Darr, Quartermaster Clerk O'Toole, Staff Sergeant McCabe, Quartermaster Sergeant Moore, Staff Sergeant Francis Miller, Mr. Small, Private L. E. Browning (first class), Quartermaster Sergeant Carley, Pay Clerk C. Gates, Quartermaster Sergeant Fisher, Mr. Ross, Private M. Taylor (first class), Lieut. Enyart, Capt. Kelleher, Capt. Kemon, Quartermaster Sergeant Long, Quartermaster Sergeant Frank Miller(*), Mr. Sargent, Corporal Colburn.

Lieut. Col. Lee, Lieut. Col. Sanderson, Lieut. Col. Puryear, Maj. Cates, Capt. Armstead, Robbins, Capt. Henry, Lieut. Miller, Musician Tobia, Musician Hess, Musician Bodnar, Musician Viner, Capt. Savage, Capt. Gregory, Chief Pay Clerk May, Quartermaster Clerk Fountain, Col. Beaumont, Col. Matthews, Maj. Ostermann, Quartermaster Sergeant Sutphin, Quartermaster Sergeant Lawrenson, Mr. Snead, Mr. Garrett.

THE Federal Diary likes to unfold good news by degrees, so that we have withheld until today announcement of other prizes, in addition to the beautiful 20-inch cup to be awarded the winner of the Diary's first annual golf tournament, Indian Spring, Thursday. And later we'll announce more prizes, and so on.

Through cooperation of R. Harris & Co., jewelers, we announce a handsome plaque and a gilded golfer mounted on its pedestal as additional prizes. They are contributed by R. Harris & Co. and were selected through assistance of Vent W. Speaker, who knows his prizes. There'll be other news on prizes and announcement of pairings and starting time is not far off, yet far enough away to permit players to arrange for leave time.

Today we tell, with the aid of George Diffenbaugh, pro, of hole No. 13—and let's hope it's not an unlucky hole for any. It is 334 yards, par 4, and is known as the "church" hole.

"Your drive," says George, has to carry a trap to the right and left of the fairway. Mashie pitch to an island green. This is another plateau green, and one of the finest drive-and-pitch holes in Washington.

JOHN E. LYNCH, chief, Time and Disbursements Section, Internal Revenue Bureau, has had "another" birthday. The employes of his section surprised him with a luncheon. They had a large birthday cake and plenty of sweets—even Honey (Willard H.). Mr. Lynch's monogram was used upon the cake instead of candles. Is it possible, John, that you have quit counting the anniversaries? An interesting book of memories, illustrating the life of Mr. Lynch from the days of the safety pins up to the present time, was presented to him.

Conditions really are not so bad. They're not giving jig-saw puzzles with automobile purchases, yet.

Gardiner Dancers Present Diversified Spring Recital

The Lisa Gardiner Dancers presented their spring recital last evening at the Roosevelt High School under the auspices of the Community Center Department. Kathryn Mullowny, dancer of "Flying Colors," was the guest artist.

Keeping up the high standard of earlier Center presentations, the dancers offered a diversified program, expertly danced, beautifully costumed and flawlessly staged. Adding to the effectiveness was the accompaniment of Mrs. Edith H. Hunter and the masterful handling of the lights by Harold Snyder.

Aside from the work of Miss Gardiner and Miss Mullowny, naturally outstanding items on the bill, special mention should be made of the Caucasian dance, by Frances Rands; the Russian gypsy number by Alice Louise Hunter, and the cycle of five numbers in a Spanish motif by Fillis Speich, Eda Vomachka, Christine Stewart, Miss Gardiner and the group.

Among the others participating were Helen Roberts, Lella Gurley, Margaret Cobey, Marianna Kyle, Georgia Hiden, Sallie Harris, Ann Vucinovich, Lora Wills, Barbara Worrsell, Kathleen Piazza, Marjorie Beall, Jacqueline Kitchen, Greta Aiken, Betty Yoder, Lucy Cutts, Nancy Williard, Carol Wentworth, Rosa Russell, Betty Sahm, Mary Day, Elizabeth Berkeley, Helen Clarke, Charlotte Walton, Katherine Marie DeLany, Vivian Dawson, Irene Bonis and Jeanne Densmore.

ROOSEVELT TO GIVE ACADEMY DIPLOMAS

Examinations Completed at Annapolis Preparatory to Graduation.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 19.—That President Roosevelt will come to Annapolis June 1 to address the Naval Academy graduating class and present diplomas was officially made known today following a visit of Capt. Walter N. Vernou and Col. Don Storck, naval and military aids, respectively, to the Chief Executive. The two officers were making plans for the trip of the President, which is expected to cover only the actual time required for the graduation exercises.

Final examinations of the midshipmen were completed todsy and in line with tradition ceremonies were held around the monument of Old Tecumseh, Indian chief figurehead of the old warship Delaware, known as the "God of 2.5," the passing mark in examinations.

Merit Roll to Be Compiled.

The final merit roll of the graduates will be compiled within the next few days. Indications are that Karl F. Neupert, Portland, Oreg., will take first honors. Neupert has just been adjudged winner of the sword offered anhually by the class of 1871 for excellence in practical and theoretical ordnance and gunnery.

Authorities of the academy have announced the names of 20 graduates who have elected to accept commissions as second lieutenants in the Marine Corps, and eight others who will be commissioned ensigns in the Supply Corps, rather than continue in the regular line.

Among those to enter the Marine Corps will be David S. McDougall and William A. Kengla, of Washington. McDougall is the son of Col. McDougall, U. S. A. He is captain of the academy rifle team and has won a number of medals for marksmanship in collegiate and national competition.

To Enter Marine Corps.

Others going into the Marine Corps are:

Edward A. Authier, Fredericks Bronson and Alfred T. Magnell, all of Connecticut; Nixon L. Ballard, Guy M. Morrow and Sidney S. Wade, Illinois; Joslyn R. Bailey, West Virginia; Ethridge C. Best, Texas; Robert O. Brown, Donald W. Fuller, Massachusetts; James F. Climie, Alaska; William E. Erwin, jr., Colorado; James M. Masters, jr., South Carolina; Wilbur J. McNenny, South Dakota; James Rockwell, Puerto Rico; Theodore C. Turnage, jr., North Carolina; Marshall A. Tyler, Rhode Island; Paul E. Wallace, Washington State.

The eight for the supply corps are James E. Bullock and James S. Dietz, Ohio; Ernest C. Campbell, Nevada; Dewitt C. T. Grubbs, jr., Kentucky; Roes G. Linson, Nebraska; Albert F. Ryan, jr., New York; Donald W. Twigg, at large; Paul L. Asintraub, jr., Pennsylvania.

"THE SILVER CORD." RKO-Radio picturization of the play by Sidney Howard, adapted to the screen by Jane Murfin, featuring Irene Dunne, Laura Hope Crews, Joel McCrea, Eric Linden and Frances Dee. Directed by John Cromwell. Previewed Tuesday, May 9.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Adhering with rigid fidelity to Sidney Howard's almost too clinical dissection of an unpleasant domestic situation, this admirably acted and photographed stage play leaves an indelible impression of deep penetration and great power, if not of a gay evening's entertainment.

"The Silver Cord," of course, is in Mr. Howard's usually serious vein and devotes itself wholly to being thoughtful, arresting and dramatically well-knit, without bothering much of any about the minor matter of enlivenment or any other sort than intellectual entertainment. It is a drama of psychological and mental, rather than physical, action. Its climaxes, with the exception of one brief suicidal attempt, are purely conversational. The conflict is between a young bride of scientific bent and a Freudian mother consumed by an abnormal passion for her sons and an intense, although shrewdly disguised, jealousy of anyone who comes between her and them.

The play has its locale in the sequestered home of Mrs. Phelps, to which her eldest son, David, has brought his bride, Christine, and where the younger son, Robert, is celebrating his betrothal to Hester, a vivacious and impressionable young woman. David and Christine have plans for a joint career in New York; Robert and Hester envision a married life of happiness and independence. These plans Mrs. Phelps cunningly and almost successfully disrupts by the most subtle and skillfully concealed exercises of a distorted love and a prodigious selfishness.

The clear-visioned and courageous daughter-in-law finally brings things to a crisis and unmasks the unscrupulous and unjust motives of this self-deluded mother in a climacteric scene that is as dramatically forceful as it is disturbingly and memorably unpleasant. "The Silver Cord" is not a happy play.

It is, however, a superlatively well-acted one. First honors, by a margin so great that none of her competition may be said to be even close, go to that veteran and distinguished actress, Laura Hope Crews, in the role of Mrs. Phelps, which she created on the stage and which she interprets with such a wealth of illuminating artistry as to make it one of the cinema's finest individual achievements.

Irene Dunne, as the daughter-in-law, also offers a sincere and thoroughly commendable study of an earnest and well-balanced young woman, desperately in love with her husband. Frances Dee, as the hysterical younger girl, whose engagement is so suddenly broken, takes on magnified stature as a youthful actress of greater emotional power than she has ever before had occasion to reveal. Joel McCrea and Eric Linden, two reliable young men, contribute characteristically smooth and believable performances of a pair of pliant lads completely under their mother's boguely gentle domination. These alone comprise all of the cast that matter.

On the stage, that charming young psychic phenomenon, Gene Dennis, offers a special added attraction that is as baffling as it is seemingly authentic. I say "seemingly" because the lay mind finds it difficult to grasp the apparently supernatural powers of divination with which this remarkable young woman is endowed.

Without the aid of professional confederates, mechanical apparatus of any kind or any sort of stage "setting," Miss Dennis, a simple, unaffected and extremely attractive young woman, answers questions from any part of the theater, not in a monosyllabic "yes" or "no," but with a completeness of detail and surrounding circumstances that could not well be fabricated or faked. It is a demonstration that can not adequately be described, but one that is profoundly impressive and strangely entertaining when viewed first-hand. Gene Dennis is truely one of the wonders of the age.

The Pathe News, a comedy, "Loops My Dear;" a short-reel, "Bubbles and Troubles," and the customary house features complete a program of unique appeal.

PALACE

"HELL BELOW." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of a story by Commander Edward Ellsberg, featuring Robert Montgomery, Madge Evans, Walter Huston and Jimmie Durante. Directed by Jack Conway. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Naval warfare, over, on, and under the sea, comes to the fore in "Hell Below," but, as the title indicates, the submarine aspects of the picture predominate. So long as the story confines itself to this phase of modern warfare, it is exciting; excellently directed, acted and photographed. But when shore-leave time comes around, strange as it seems, judging from the tradition of the sea, the story comes almost to a dead stop.

"Story" as a designation of the thread of narrative is here somewhat loosely used, for, by and large, "Hell Below" is not particularly a story. More especially is it a pictorial essay on the activities and management of submarines in which is used, as the climax episode, a submergence from which there seems for the time being no arising. Yet through this chronicle of the Navy's most hasardous service there runs a narrative thread of more crass material, which attempts to make possible an impossible situation.

As commander of the AL-14, Walter Huston is called upon to subordinate his more humane nature and become a cold, calculating military man. Under him is Robert Montgomery, as a young lieutenant, who is in love with the commander's daughter (Madge Evans), unfortunately married to an aviator suffering from paresis, due to a crack-up. In the hands of Jimmie Durante and Eugene Pallette are the comedy moments, with the former a would-be dentist, and the latter, while more serious than usual, his able foil.

Especially to be recommended are the latter portions of the picture which deal with the grounding of the submarine in a depth 64 feet lower than that which is considered the safe maximum. Too, the tragic finale, where Mr. Montgomery drove the TNT-loaded AL-14 into the Gibraltar-like fort, sacrificing himself to bottle up the enemy's U-boats, is a particularly effective scene.

Closing on so tense a note, the Terry-Toon "Tropical Fish," comes as a welcome relief, even though the aqueous motif is continued. Still, these piscatorial submarines are different! The program is rounded out by a release of the Metrotone News.

LOEW'S FOX

"SECRETS." United Artists picturization of a story by Frances Marion, starring Mary Pickford, with Leslie Howard, C. Aubrey Smith, Blanche Friderici, Ned Sparks and Mona Maris. Directed by Frank Borzage. Reviewed Friday morning.

Cut from the same pattern as "The Conquerors," this story of a lifetime of devotion and struggle, embodies a touch of all these qualities of romantic drama with which the name of Mary Pickford has been synonymous ever since the old Biograph days, with the possible exception of that sheer juvenility that characterized such of her earlier vehicles as "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and "Daddy Long Legs."

Beginning with Mary Marlowe as a coquettish young girl in the New England of hoopskirts and crinolines, the story threads its way through an elopement from the stern paternal roof with the impecunious young shipping clerk; a trek to the West by wagon train, the homemaking in a wilderness, the coming of the baby, the war with the cattle rustlers, the death of the baby, the political career, the "other woman" and a husband's clandestine philandering, the survival of all these harrasements and a peaceful, rich and romantic old age, crowded with golden memories and with its "secrets"—some bitter, some sweet—locked forever in their breast.

There is play here for every mood, every emotion, every nuance, every light and shade, with which Mary Pickford ever has embellished a portrayal. Throughout the movement of this drama, as a matter of fact, there is a constant and intangible suggestion that "Secrets" was devised rather to strengthen happy recollections of the Pickford charm than to establish any authentic claim to a position among the more commanding of the articulate screen plays of modern vintage. Hybrid as it is, in both content and treatment, it still must stand as by far the best of the talking pictures in which its star has striven so conscientiously to reclaim some measure of her former glory.

Even if not any longer "America's sweetheart," Mary Pickford at least is entitled to be known as an earnest, competent and beloved actress whose reappearances on the screen effectually link an older era of the "movies" with the present.

In her current vehicle, Miss Pickford's portrayal of the fruitful role of Mary Marlowe is accorded the benefit of several excellent supporting performances—notably those of Leslie Howard, who does not at all times entirely fulfill one's preconceived notion of what the Western pioneers were like, but gives a generally good account of himself for all that; C. Audrey Smith, Ned Sparks, Allan Sears, as a desperado of deepest dye; Doris Lloyd, Ethel Clayton, Bessie Barriscale and numerous others.

"Secrets" reflects much of Frank Borzage's superlative genius for directorial effects, a keen eye for scenic magnificence and highly artistic photography.

On the stage Smith Ballew and His Orchestra present a turn strikingly like that of Waring's Pennsylvanians. This talented group combines instrumental and vocal versatility in about equal proportions, interlarding their more formal numbers with novelties of various sorts. They are assisted by Virginia Frank, a vivacious singer and dancer formerly with "Of Thee I Sing."

Rex Weber, with a sense of humor, an excellent singing voice and a ventriloquial trick that is a bit bewildering, scores a substantial hit. He introduced "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime" in "Americana," and is now breaking in its successor, "Three Square Meals a Day." Bernice and Emily, assisted by a male vocalist and an eccentric dancer, open the bill to a sound hit and Harry and Frank Seamon, clown in the deuce spot as a couple of mat acrobats.

The Fox Movietone News, featuring Marvin McIntyre and Steve Early, of the President's secretariat, and Phil Lampkin's "Lucia" overture complete the program. N. B. B.

METROPOLITAN

"THE WORKING MAN." Warner Brothers picturization of a story by Edgar Franklin, starring George Arliss, with Bette Davis, Gordon Wescott, Hardie Albright, Theodore Newton and J. Farrell MacDonald. Directed by the late John G. Adolfi. Reviewed (continuation of return engagement) by W. A. Whitney.

Although he has been a British statesman and an American patriot, as well as an Eastern potentate of dubious purposes, George Arliss reaches his greatest popular appeal when he assumes the role of a working man, be it as in "Old English," "The Millionaire" or in the current "The Working Man."

With each added picture Mr. Arliss more firmly clinches his claim to being the screen's Number One character actor. He is, it would seem, quite incapable of doing anything even remotely resembling a poor job; but more than that, he has that intangible something which inspires his supporting cast to histrionic heights they never before have scaled.

At this time it would be superfluous to enter into a minute consideration of this picture, as should be done in a first review, suffice it to say that if you miss "The Working Man" you have missed Arliss at his best.

Assisting the star are Bette Davis and Theodore Newton, as brother and sister brought to their senses by Mr. Arliss; Gordon Wescott, Hardie Albright and J. Farrell MacDonald.

The current short subjects include "Rambling 'Round Radio Row," a diverting revuelet featuring Harry Rose, the Three Keys, Uncle Don and Buddy Rogers; Lowell Thomas describing the "Inklings," a photographic novelty of famous people, and a new issue of the Paramount News.

EARLE

"THE LITTLE GIANT." First National picturization of a story by Robert Lord and Wilson Mizner, starring Edward G. Robinson, with Helen Vinson and Mary Astor. Directed by Roy Del Ruth. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

This amounts, in essence, to "Little Caesar" gone quaint!

"The Little Giant" is Chicago's big shot among the gangsters and beer barons, turned social with the coming of the "new deal" and hobnobbing with the elite of the West Coast, where he flees the consequences of his evil associations along the shores of Lake Michigan. What happens to the mug, "Bugs" Ahearne, once he eschews the gats, the heaters and the triggermen and goes in for culture, polo and love in a big way forms the basis of one of the liveliest and most amusing yarns that ever dripped off the pens of Robert Lord and Wilson Mizner, two writing gentlemen, who know their stuff as long as it centers in the underworld and gets no pearer the upper crust than the mobsters are able to reach without standing on their toes.

Having done "Little Caesar" and "Smart Money," this chore is right up Edward G. Robinson's alley. His portrayal of the roughneck gone grand is a comedy gem, closely seconded by the swell performance of his sidekick, Al Daniels, in the person of Russell Hopton, who appears in the role that would have been Jimmy Cagney's in the old days. Their assaults on the haunts of the very rich in Santa Barbara, how they are "taken" for all they have by a phoney family of social climbers and financial brigands and how they turn the tables by purely Chicago methods is worth that much of any amusement seeker's time.

There is, of course, a love story running through the recital of Master Ahearne's social adventures. Helen Vinson and Mary Astor are the chief feminine figures in working this movement of the plot out satisfactorily. All very droll and, now and again, just a wee mite rowdy.

The picture, in addition to laying stress on a fine sense of the ridiculous, partakes somewhat of the atmosphere of opulence to which it pretends. It is handsomely set and extremely well directed and photographed.

The vaudeville bill strikes a fair average standard of merit, with Nancy Garner nominally headlining, and Walter ("Mouse") Powell and his small but energetic orchestra actually creating the riot. Miss Garner's voice shows to best advantage and was most heartily acclaimed in her more serious numbers, although all are well sung. Yesterday afternoon "Caro Nome" and Secretary Woodin's "Spring Is in My Heart Again" surpassed such lighter popular hits as "Farewell to Arms" and "Shuffle Off to Buffalo." Mr. Powell's band patterns its antics a little after the style of Frank and Milt Britton's, with Rudy Bundy on the receiving end of most of the rough stuff. Their music is just so-so.

To open the stage program, Miss Maxine Doyle, all harnessed up in gay new spring toggery, introduces that expert double sextet of dancers known as the Twelve Aristocrats, who are followed by Forsythe, Seamon and Farrell in an interval of high-pressure comedy, song and dance.

The Universal News, a Tom Howard "Suicide Squad" comedy, "Parades of Yesterday," an amusing novelty, and Freddie Clark's "Three Musketeers" overture complete the compilation of a bill that pretends to no serious moment. N. B. B.

TWO ADMIT ROBBING SLAIN MILLIONAIRE

Young Accountants Confess They and Aid Tricked Signature of Will

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—Ten days of persistent police questioning today brought from two young accountants an admission they had systematically robbed Edward A. Ridley, slain eccentric millionaire, and with his secretary, Lee Weinstein, had tricked him into signing a spurious will.

The accountants, Arthur J. Hoffman, 28, and George Goodman, 31, were held in $50,000 bail each by Magistrate August Dreyer in Tombs Court for hearing Friday afternoon. Unable to furnish the high bail, they were committed to the Tombs.

Police said the accountants had denied earlier the slaying of the department store owner, whose body was found with that of his secretary in his musty sub-basement Allen street real estate office.

Inspector Francis J. Kear told how, with Weinstein, who, they said, conceived the plan, they had stolen $210,000 from the white-whiskered old man through creation of three dummy corporations and how Ridley believed he was merely signing a letter when he bequeathed Weinstein $200,000.

The breakdown of Hoffman and Goodman was the first major development in the police efforts to solve the mysterious slaying of Ridley, with its background of hidden millions, intrigue, unsolved murder and an old man's eccentricities.

TURNING TO SALES TAX.

Director of the Budget Douglas has outlined for the ways and means committee four different tax plans to raise money for interest and amortization of the proposed public works bonds. Presumably these are the only levies that the administration considers feasible. Congress, however, is asked to formulate its tax plan without any specific recommendations from President Roosevelt or the Budget Bureau.

The first three plans offered by Mr. Douglas are not impressive. It is doubtful whether they measure up to the President's dictum "that the revenues so provided must be adequate and certain rather than inadequate and speculative." Mr. Douglas' first plan is based on higher income taxes. He would raise the rates from 4 to 6 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income and from 8 to 10 per cent on the next $4,000 to produce $46,000,000 in additional revenue. These new rates would also be applied to dividends, which are not now subject to normal taxes, to increase the yield by $83,000,000. Added to this would be an increase in the gasoline tax to raise $92,000,000.

Congress levied drastic increases in income taxes last year, but the total yield thus far is below the yield from the lower taxes of 1931. Income taxes are not productive in times of severe depression. Large taxable incomes are wiped out by heavy losses. The severe dip which business took in March and April will make another deficiency in income tax receipts next year, in spite of the present improvement. While economic conditions remain as they are, higher income taxes may prove to be both "uncertain and inadequate."

One other difficulty arises from this program. Higher levies upon incomes would apply to 1933 returns, and the tax would not begin to be paid until March 15, 1934. In other words, nearly a year would elapse before revenue from this source would become available, and the Government plans to go forward with its public works program immediately. Since no one knows what the yield of income taxes next March will be, the objections to this program become obvious.

The present exemption of corporate dividends from taxes is frequently misunderstood. Income taxes are levied upon the profits of corporations before dividends are paid, and the dividends are thus taxed before they reach the stockholder. A second levy upon dividends in the hands of the stockholder would amount to double taxation. Congress has often considered this step, but it has continued to exempt dividends because of the natural resentment of the public against taxing the same income twice.

In Mr. Douglas' second plan special levies upon coffee, tea and cocoa are merely substituted for the proposed higher gasoline tax. The third plan would increase normal tax rates to 8 and 12 per cent, would put a toll on telephone messages and lower the exemption of the admissions tax. Congress revolted against this proposed tax on the movies a year ago, and it may do so again. It seems incredible also that Congress would almost double the drastic income taxes it adopted last year.

There remains the sales tax. A single levy of this kind would raise the entire $220,000,000 that is needed. Its yield would be immediate and relatively certain. No other tax that can be devised would be so painless and yet productive under present conditions as the sales levy. It appears that Congress must choose between the sales tax and abandonment of the public works scheme. No circumstances would justify Congress in jeopardizing the credit of the Government by ordering a gigantic public works program with inadequate and uncertain revenue to service the necessary bond issue.

PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS.

The philosopher of Peachtree Street, Clark Howell of Georgia, receives the tender of five ambassadorships, one after another, and courteously advises President Roosevelt that he prefers to remain at home. He believes that he can give more effective service to the President and the Democratic party by adhering to the Constitution than by hobnobbing with foreign dictators.

How different the conclusions of editorial minds! Josephus Daniels of Raleigh and Robert Bingham of Louisville choose to put on the serape and the knee breeches of diplomacy, while Clark Howell of Atlanta clings to the tripod and the blue jeans of good old Georgia. Josephus delights in tamales and enchiladas while he sits on the parapet of the Hill of the Grasshopper and dreams of stout Cortez and Tenochtitlan. Robert is enchanted as he wanders in the byways of London, looking in at the Boar's Head and the Cheshire Cheese. But Clark is happiest while he hurls the Constitution's thunderbolts at the reptile opposition and nourishes his frame on hog-jowl and greens.

Josephus may add to his fame by consummating treaties of amity and commerce between Anahuac and the Colossus of the North, and Robert may do yeoman service by facilitating the efforts of two great powers to understand each other in the English language, so called. But Clark, reveling in Georgia peaches and scuppernongs in their season, and keeping the administration on the right road by the frequent admonitions of the Constitution, will be the happiest of the trio.

THE MacDONALD PLAN.

World-wide attention has been centered upon the MacDonald disarmament plan since it has been accepted by President Roosevelt and Chancellor Hitler as a basis for agreement at Geneva. When this plan was first announced on March 16 it was given only passing attention in the United States because public interest was concentrated on the banking crisis. The effect of recent events in Washington and Berlin is to make this plan the fulcrum on which the disarmament conference will turn toward success or failure.

Prime Minister MacDonald divided his plan into five parts. The first deals with security. It declares that any war in breach of the Kellogg pact is a matter of interest to all the signatory powers and shall be regarded as a breach of the obligations assumed toward each one of them. In case of war or a threat of aggression five contracting nations, including either the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Japan or Soviet Russia, could call a conference at Geneva to determine what action, if any, should be taken. Conclusions reached at such a conference would become valid only when approved by representatives of all the countries just mentioned and a majority of other countries participating in the conference, exclusive in each case of the parties to the dispute.

The purpose of the conference would be to identify the aggressor, if the Kellogg pact had already been violated, or to agree upon steps to preserve the peace, if hostilities had not yet broken out.

Part II of the MacDonald plan is devoted to disarmament. It provides a formula by which the armies of all countries would be measured. All the contracting powers would then agree to prohibit military training, except in organizations under the control of their governments. Mr. MacDonald allots to France 200,000 men for the home country and 200,000 more for overseas; to Germany and Poland, 200,000 each; to Italy, 200,000 for the home country and 50,000 more for overseas; to the Soviet 500,000, and to Czechoslovakia 100,000. No figure was suggested for the United States.

Mr. MacDonald would limit the caliber of mobile land guns of the future to 105 millimeters and coast defense guns to 405 millimeters. Armored tanks would be limited to 16 tons. Existing tanks and guns above these requirements would be destroyed as soon as they are replaced.

France and Italy would be bound to ratify the London naval treaty under specific terms outlined in the convention. Provisions are also made for limiting the naval construction of countries to which the London treaty does not apply.

Air bombers would be abolished. Provision would be made for limiting aircraft and restricting the weight of airplanes that may be used. New dirigibles could not be constructed during the five years that this convention would remain in operation.

The third part of the MacDonald plan provides for the exchange of information. The fourth would abolish and forbid the use of chemical, incendiary and bacterial weapons of war. Gas of any kind would be forbidden as an established rule of international law. The final section would limit the agreement to five years and provide for a permanent disarmament commission.

Two central objectives are apparent in the MacDonald plan. He seeks to bring the powers of the world together in consultation when peace is threatened and to secure uniform action against the aggressor if possible. Then he seeks to strengthen defense and penalize aggression by abolishing and limiting those weapons that are peculiarly adapted to offensive warfare.

A GIFT TO THE RAILROADS.

In the railroad plan transmitted to Congress last week there is included a provision for the repeal of the recapture clauses of the interstate commerce act. The legislation is retroactive in effect and provides that all moneys which were recoverable by and payable to the Interstate Commerce Commission under the recapture provision of the act shall cease to be so recoverable and payable. That all proceedings by the commission pending for the recovery of any such moneys shall be terminated, and that the general railroad contingent fund established under such section shall be liquidated and distributed by the Secretary of the Treasury among the railroads which have made payments under such section.

Under this proposed legislation the Government would relinquish its claim against the prosperous railroads of the country in an amount approximating $340,000,000, and in addition thereto return to such carriers approximately $13,000,000 already paid to it under the recapture provisions, and thus to donate to such railroads a sum totalling in excess of 78.4 per cent of the entire savings planned by the administration for the coming fiscal year through cuts in veterans' costs.

The proposed contribution would go only to the prosperous railroads, for the reason that it is only that class of carriers who under the provisions of the present law are obligated to pay recapture.

When the law was enacted in 1920, as has been explained by the Supreme Court in 261 U. S. 184, the credit of many of the railroads had become seriously impaired. Railroad rates prior to that time had already been increased and it was not clear that further general increases would be tolerated by the people if thereby the prosperous competing roads were permitted to earn an unreasonably high return. It was essential, therefore, to avoid unduly burdensome rate increases, and yet necessary to secure revenues sufficient to answer the needs of the less prosperous carriers. If rates were increased only on the lines of the weaker carriers, of course the competitive business would go to the lines of the prosperous roads, having the lower rates. It was therefore arranged, and the law so provided, that any carrier that receives an income in excess of 6 per cent of the value of its property shall retain one-half of the excess as a reserve fund to preserve its sound financial condition, while the other half of the excess shall be turned over to the United States to become part of a contingent fund to be administered by the Interstate Commerce Commission either for making loans to the weaker roads or for purchasing equipment to be leased to such carriers.

Strong opposition is developing in both houses of Congress against the enactment of the proposed legislation. Considerable murmuring is heard to the effect that at the hearings only the carriers' side of the case has been presented, while no one has appeared in behalf of the general public and the taxpayer. The money involved constitutes a fund to be used in the interest of adequate and efficient transportation in all sections of the country.

The proposed law does not prescribe the use to which the money shall be put. It may be used by the prosperous railroads to pay dividends or for any other purpose. The Supreme Court has said that it is money which belongs neither to the carrier nor the shipper, but is received and held by the carrier in the course of its operations in trust for the United States.

If the policy of relieving the carriers from their obligations under the recapture provisions is warranted in principle, it would certainly be just as logical for Congress to relieve the carriers from their obligations to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. These borrowings amount to $335,800,000.

Instead of asking for an 80 per cent cut in the war debt, Italy should demand a cut of 180 per cent, so as to teach Americans not to lend money carelessly.

Civil service employes know that they are under the merit system, but what they want to know is whether their jobs are to be given to Democrats.

Every college professor carries a dictatorship in his theory bag.

AN END OF PUBLIC EXTRAVAGANCE

From the Chattanooga News.

Blithely our governments skip along, merrily singing tra-la, tra-la. And, suddenly, they run out of anything whatever to use for money. When that happens, of course, there is nothing left but to stop everything.

The county government has a temporary moratorium. Judge Cummings and his associates have effected some good economies, and the distressing situation now confronting us could not have been entirely averted even if, starting with the first year of the depression, costs had been cut to the very bone.

Several events have created an unprecedented situation, and we find the government coffers empty.

In the first place, the Legislature has made the mistake of being too generous with delinquent taxpayers.

After all, governments are operated on tax money, and if we can not collect any of it, we can not operate our necessary governmental services.

In the second place, all governments have made the mistake of estimating future tax collections too high, and of borrowing on "anticipated tax revenues" too heavily.

In the third place, local governmental machines have been too costly and cumbersome for many years, and the cumulative expense of them over the period of a decade or two has simply broken the camel's back. This is true of practically all county governments.

Judge Cummings has done a number of effective things since the depression reached its peak. Now he promises to go even further. The people will support his plan. But yesterday he was forced to inform the people that "Hamilton County is unable to meet its pay roll, and payments on Hamilton County's obligations have been suspended."

County teachers were first to feel the blow. Yesterday was pay day for them, but it was a payless pay day.

No salaries will be paid, except those coming under the general salary law, in offices where collections are sufficient to pay salaries. Courts will suspend, as we announced yesterday.

The county has $821,000 in taxes due, which can not be collected until after June 1, because of legislation, recently enacted, freeing the people from the bother of paying taxes. We have $436,000 in back taxes due, which need not be paid before the first of next year, under the Legislature's supergenerosity. The State owes the county $200,000 in school funds. The county has $117,000 in the Chattanooga National Bank, and $84,000 on checks on that bank. Thus $1,500,000 of possible revenue is frozen temporarily. But what the county must consider is that much of it is permanently frozen, and we refer especially to some of the delinquent taxes. The government which figures on collecting 100 per cent of its delinquent taxes nowadays is fooling itself.

Payless pay days are distressing. Empty county treasuries are alarming. But through these trials and tribulations the county will emerge with a more efficient and a vastly more economical government.

Meanwhile, we urge that the people remain patient.

Judge Cummings has secured further time on the $400,000 which the county owes the banks.

Some relief will come after June 1. And drastic economies all along the line will enable the government to continue to function, in a limited way.

But Japan Has the Oars.

POST HASTE.

Fashioning an all-round peg to square with a $3.50 pound, a 4-cent franc, a 20-cent yen and a 70-cent dollar requires some whittling.

The antitrust laws and antitrust among themselves demand that the oil interests have a special dispensation of dictatorship from Congress.

Consultative pact discussions won't worry aggressors much until they know about the then what.

Hoover and Mills are going into the mining business. It is a conspiracy to produce so much gold the world can't abandon it.

It's got to be a sales tax: the question is, shall it be general and so small it will be largely absorbed before it reaches the consumer, or limited to burdensome levies on a few products?

Since the application of the farm bill must now await the conclusion of the economic conference, Congress should pass a bill suspending the crop season for six months.

Undoubtedly conditions are better, but we are restraining our enthusiasm until the upswing of general business activity passes the low of last July.

Between actual beer and official urging of repeal haste the dampness is so great the dry force itself is drying up.

A reversible simile: As mad as the debutantes who were received at court by the Prince of Wales instead of Papa George.

Curiously, several of the commeptators on the speech of the little corporal, the Austrian house-painter come to power, failed to refer to the sobering influence of authority.

You notice the astute Lew Douglas works up to the simple climax: General manufacturers' excise, 1 1-5 per cent, no exemptions, to yield $228,000,000.

We claim it is news that Poland is paying off $700,000 of 8 per cent gold bonds in New York on July 1.

It seems to be as difficult to cache the war debts as to cash them.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

TOAST TO US ALL.

Here's to us all, and our strength to rebuild
What we view now in sorrow!
Here's to our dreams that are yet unfilled,
And here's to tomorrow.
Out of the wreckage now strewn all about
We shall rise to new glory.
Today, with its difficult problems and doubt,
Is but half of the story.

Here's to us all and our courage to meet,
Despite scorners and scoffers
And setbacks and heartaches and seeming defeat—
Everything which life offers.
There are goals to achieve which shall better the past
In these days terror-haunted.
Here's to the faith we possess to stand fast,
Unafraid and undaunted.

Here's to us all and our heritage rare
Of good heart for disaster;
The pioneer spirit to do and to dare
Until right shall be master!
Here's to our age-old traditional trait
Of high courage unbroken!
A toast to our patience to work and to wait
'Till the last word be spoken.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY Dear Louise: If you have any fault in the matter of clothing yourself, it is that of being too precise. Each seam and thread must be in exact alignment before you face a critical world.

But one extreme always invites another and girls of your age are subject to strange new enthusiasms, so a word of warning may do you a service.

Today I met a young lady who once was dressed as primly as a Christmas doll. Now, having gone Bohemian or individualistic or something like that, she is incredibly and indifferently dowdy.

Her clothes, badly chosen in the beginning, look as though they had been slept in. Her hair is unkempt. Her shoulders sag and her carriage is slouchy. And it isn't a matter of poverty, but of pose or indifference.

It isn't right. Nobody in a civilized community has a right to dress in any such manner as that or carry herself in a way so ungraceful.

Perhaps it never occurred to you that clothes and posture had anything to do with right and wrong. Well, they have; and the reason is clearly apparent if you give it a moment's thought.

What is the purpose of table manners? Why is the individual obligated to observe certain nice rules?

It isn't for his own sake. No rules would be necessary if he ate alone. But things that are vulgar or ugly or unclean offend people of delicate sensibilities and spoil their appetite. Therefore the individual who dines in public must avoid any act or speech that would make him an offense to fellow diners.

The same rule holds good in the matter of dress and posture and conduct. You make a good appearance in order to impress others, but primarily your object is to avoid giving offense.

To walk as though stumbling to the grave, to wear hideous color combinations, or to affect garments that offend good taste is to mistreat all beholders. The effect is depressing and discouraging, like the sight of an unwashed drunk in a park. It offends the public as a bad odor does—and it shames relatives and friends.

Ugliness is a poison and beauty a tonic. This morning I passed a happy youngster whose heels clicked a merry tattoo on the pavement. Her chin was up, her shoulders back, and her eyes were as bright as the gay gingham frock she wore. Seeing her was like hearing the lively music of fiddles.

We can't all be beautiful or dress expensively. But at home or abroad we are obligated to do the best we can. Nobody has a right to give others a pain. Love,

DAD.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Balancing the Budget.

Topeka Capital.

President Roosevelt's statement that the budget will be balanced within a matter of 120 millions by July of next year is subject to certain qualifications, notwithstanding that his economies of administration have cut the deficit a round billion dollars for the ensuing fiscal year. The Treasury has been and still is falling behind by about a billion, so with that amount saved the budget should balance. But meantime huge undertakings involving billions are in contemplation.

In the ordinary sense the budget therefore will be no nearer in balance than before, if not considerably less so, but this is avoided by setting up a new accounting plan, by which capital expense is segregated into a budget of its own. If by this device it can be said that the budget is balanced, then it could have been said to be balanced before if the same device in bookkeeping had been employed.

The Veteran Situation.

Los Angeles Times.

The decision of the administration to review and, if found advisable, to moderate the cuts in the compensation of genuinely war-disabled veterans is a wise one. It has never been the desire of the public that necessary economy should bear heavily upon those whose wounds or disease were incurred in active service. In some cases there can be little doubt that the projected cuts in allowances will work real hardship. Such cases would be those, in general, who were not receiving really adequate allowances under the old schedule, largely because of the demands of men who are not actually entitled to government compensation at all.

Brief and Clear.

Boston Transcript.

In messages and speeches the President conveys the suggestion that brevity is the soul of political exposition.

A Kentucky Mouthful.

Lexington Journal.

It does seem that a Government that seriously contemplates putting alcohol into our gasoline ought to be willing to let us have a little more of the stuff in our beer.

Readjusting Capitalism.

Springfield Republican.

All indications point to an early modification of the antitrust laws. Agriculture is already free from their prohibitions. The farm relief bill avowedly seeks to curtail production by drastic measures and raise agricultural prices. The railroads also have passed beyond the stage when rigid antimonopoly laws could appply to them. The present acute crisis in the whole economic system weakens the popular support these laws have had for a generation.

The modification evidently coming will shake the legal foundations of the principle of competition and Socialists will see in it an advance toward their position. However, capitalism is always realistic and ready to adapt itself to new conditions the moment new conditions seem to compel acceptance. It was never developed according to blueprint "system" that some great idealist had thought out; it came up out of black night. It has undergone many changes in the lifetimes of people still living. For years there has been no pure capitalism anywhere in operation. In consequence of this depression, it will probably go through another series of major readjustments. It is certainly on the way.

THE GREAT TORSO MYSTERY.

(Dablyn Crymes, the great detective, is on the trail of a gang of criminals in a so-called Torso Murder. Ima Dodo has disappeared and it is feared that she has become their latest victim. The dectective and his assistant, Oswald Skipperclew, think they have found the hiding place of the murderers and are at the door listening to the voices within).

Harsh voice—Gimme a piece of the ear, I tell ya!

Second voice.—I just gave ya a piece of ear!

Harsh voice.—That's all right, gimme another * * * a bigger piece * * * a pink piece!

Dablyn (to his assistant)—Sh-h-h-h! We've got 'em.

Skipperclew, (in horror)—We've caught 'em red-handed.

A third voice—Where's that elbow?

Fourth voice.—What elbow?

Third voice.—The right elbow. You had it a minute ago. What didja do with it?

Fourth voice.—I ain't had no elbow.

First voice.—Gwan, I saw ya with it! You asked me where to put it.

Fourth voice.—That was no elbow. It was a piece of her knee.

Dablyn Crymes (very pale).—This is awful!

Skipperclew.—Monstrous.

First voice (very harshly).—Snap into it, you fellas! Gimme the other half o' her head.

Second voice.—Take your time! Take your time! What about the torso?

Dablyn (shaking visibly).—We've stumbled on the gang in the very midst of its gruesome work!

Skipperclew.—Maybe we should go and get some help. Two of us won't be enough for such blood-thirsty villains!

Third voice.—Aw, make up your minds! Do you want the torso or the head?

First voice.—You heard me—the head. What became of the eyes?

Dablyn (resolutely).—We can wait no longer! Let us break down the door.

(They put their shoulders to the door and force it in. Four very respectable middle-aged men are sitting at a table. They look up, astonished).

Dablyn Crymes (sternly).—You're under arrest!

The four men (in unision, as they point to what they are doing).—What's the matter? CAN'T A FELLER DO A JIG-SAW PUZZLE?

(Curtain.)

RESTAURANT STUDY.

I dine in humble restaurants,
And now a place frequent
Where clumps of fresh asparagus
Are deemed an ornament.

A spray of toothpicks on the desk
At which I daily frown
Is wearing, bit by bit, I know,
My firm resistance down.

The "genia" who patronize the place
All have a lovely time;
They're helped on with their overcoats
For tipping just a dime.

But one thing that I will not do
Amid these quaint old pickin's
Is to exclaim in cheery voice,
"Just like a bit of Dickens!"

SUGGESTIONS FOR A GERMAN BOOK PUBLISHER.

Improved edition of Feuchtwanger's works; each volume hand-printed on celluloid—and warranted highly inflammable.

The Hitler pocket edition of "All Quiet on the Western Front." These volumes printed on hand-made guncotton. Each volume signed by the chancellor and embellished with a detonating cap.

The Swastika Series of Unpopular Authors; impregnated with sulphur and gunpowder and are attractively gotton up to resemble a package of Chinese firecrackers (jumbo size). Each volume complete and two whole pieces of "punk."

United States Must Avoid Foreign Entanglements if It Is to Survive Under Constitution.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The United States, if it is to survive under the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, must keep out of European wars and "foreign entanglements." The United States can survive, grow more prosperous, with greater distribution of wealth among all its people, if it will attend to its own business. AN IMMEDIATE END-PLAY.

END-PLAY situations are generally created after the ninth trick. However, occasions sometimes arise when an opponent must be thrown in the lead immediately in order to compel him to make an unfavorable lead. The following hand was played in a Duplicate game recently, and that almost every table a contract of four spades was reached. In all cases this contract was made, and the various Declarers obtained an approximate average on the board. Mr. Lewis Osborn, however, discovered a play for five, which, apparently because of its very simplicity, did not occur to the other contestants.

East, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ Q J 7 ♡ K 10 4 ◇ Q 9 8 6 2 ♣ 8 7
♠ 10 8 ♡ 6 5 3 ◇ J 10 7 4 ♣ 9 5 4 3	N W E S	♠ K 6 ♡ A J 8 2 ◇ 5 2 ♣ K Q J 6 2
	♠ A 9 5 4 3 2 ♡ Q 9 7 ◇ A K ♣ A 10

Mr. Osborn.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1♣	Dbl.	Pass	1◇
Pass	1♠	Pass	3♠
Pass	4♠	Pass	Pass
Pass

The bidding does not call for much comment. South's Double was sound, as was his subsequent bid of four spades. The only bid which calls for special commendation is North's Raise. While the hand is not strong, it is worth giving partner a chance after he has made a Takeout Double.

The Opening lead, in this as in all other cases when the hand was played, was the fourth-best club, which was won by Mr. Osborn with the Ace. At this point most of the Declarers decided in favor of the safety play of leading the Ace and another spade after taking the Ace-King of diamonds. In this fashion they lost 3 tricks—1 club, 1 heart and 1 spade. Mr. Osborn, however, realized that entering the Dummy was very important, as the spade finesse seemed likely to succeed. He therefore cashed his Ace-King of diamonds and laid down the Ten of clubs. East won the trick and was unable to find an advantageous lead. A club would afford Declarer a ruff and discard; a spade would permit the finesse to be taken automatically, and so a heart seemed the only possibility. The Ace and another heart enabled Declarer to enter Dummy with the Ten and take the spade finesse. When this succeeded, five-odd were easily made.

There are insufficient National Forests in the East to provide work for all those being recruited here.

Arrangements have been completed by the War Department for the provision of recreation for men in the camps. Each group of workers will be provided with athletic equipment, a radio, a traveling library, newspapers, magazines and writing equipment.

In each corps area one officer will be detailed to take care of the recreational program, and in each camp one officer will have charge of recreation. Post exchanges, to sell minor luxuries, will also be set up in camps which are some distance from any town.

REFORMS IN MOVIES DEMANDED BY CLUBS

Prince Georges Federation Also Deplores Cuts in School Funds.

Better and cleaner moving picture shows for Prince Georges County were demanded yesterday in a resolution adopted by the seventeenth annual meeting of Women's Clubs of the county, in session at Laurel, Md.

The resolution, introduced by the Hyattsville club, originally carried a move to ban Sunday moving pictures, but this was amended. Another resolution, introduced by the general federation, protested against curtailment of expenses for educational purposes.

The meeting, held at the Centenary Methodist Church, was opened with a musical selection by Mrs. Luther Browning and invocation by the Rev. H. C. Crutchley. The address of welcome was made by Mrs. Albert Rousel, president of the hostess club.

After short reports by federation officers, including Mrs. J. Enos Ray, president, a series of speeches on educational subjects were given.

Mrs. H. C. Sullivan gave a talk on citizenship, Mrs. Walker Duvall on education, and Mrs. John Bartoline on fine arts.

Mrs. Rudolph S. Allen, president of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, spoke on furtherance of the club's program for better citizenship.

The afternoon session was opened with a demonstration of a typical meeting of the Junior Shakespeare Club of Laurel. Three junior members were awarded prizes for the best presentations of excerpts from Shakespearean plays. They were Miss Anna Catherine Hopkins, first prize; Miss Elizabeth Pritchard, second prize, and Miss Virginia Keyes, third prize. Others participating in the demonstration were Misses Ruth C. Rider, Genevieve Atchison, Margaret Hopkins and Nathalie McNamee.

Small tins of liver, chicken, ham or tongue, known as "bridge spreads," sell two cans for 25 cents in a food shop newly opened by a department store. The popularity of this new food shop where one may put fancy groceries on the same charge account with garments (plain or fancy) —has resulted in the enlargement of space for the enterprise. Telephone orders are delivered to the shop's customers. Many women like to find specially tempting bits to take home while they are doing general shopping in the department store.

Large grain red caviar from Russia sells in four ounce jars for 40 cents in an importer's shop the Meanderer likes to visit. It is in the same shop where the small Greek peppers that are excellent appetizers sell so reasonably, and where new tins of Italian antipasto may be bought six ounces for 30 cents. Before the shopper leaves she'll want the Calamata olives she'll be allowed to taste, and the package of four dozen toasted wafers for appetizers, selling for 30 cents.

Foods whose odors or textures make them unfriendly neighbors in the icebox may be slipped into cellophane bags made for preserving fresh foods and left-overs. The bags are moisture-proof as well as odor-proof. They sell in the housewares section of an F street department store in variously sized packages, priced 10 cents up.

The canned meats that may be served cold or with very little preparation as recommended from a grocery known to Washington for many years include boned chicken, tongue, cooked ham, corned beef, curried beef, chicken a la king, canned sausages, corned beef hash, Irish stew, beef stew and lamb stew.

Mixed pickles and sweet gherkins are selling in a department store food shop this week-end for 29 cents. The pickles are in quart jars, and sell regularly for 35 cents.

Packages of dry ingredients for gingerbread, to which only liquid needs be added to make delicious gingerbread quickly, sell for 23 cents in a chain store. Near this gingerbread package on the chain store's shelf is a similar preparation for making New England brown bread with raisins. It sells for 15 cents.

The mother who takes her children food shopping will not be allowed to pass up the little pasteboard house, schoolhouse or fire engine house containing tea balls from a well known tea and coffee house. The unique packages contain 20 tea balls and sell for 22 cents.

Watermelons from Florida are appearing in the local markets. Considering the early appearance their retail price of 90 cents is not exorbitant. Sweet corn retails at 75 cents a dozen, slightly under its price of the last month.

Preserving season for strawberries from nearby Maryland and Virginia will open next week, if weather conditions are favorable for bringing in the truck loads of fruit. A wholesale dealer predicts that the right weather for berry transportation will make it possible to sell berries for about $2 a crate.

WHAT'S GOOD TO EAT

KIDNEYS GREAT DELICACY WHEN CAREFULLY COOKED

By ANN BARRETT

"FOR downright delicate eating," says sparkling Genevieve Tobin, screen actress, "give me nice brown kidney and mushroom stew, with baked potato." "I'll have lamb kidneys broiled on a skewer with bacon," says Authoress Grace Hegger Lewis (first wife of Sinclair Lewis).

Right there is the meat of the kidney story. For kidney cooking goes these two ways: Long, slow cooking for beef and mutton kidneys (because they are older and tougher) in rich, brown stews or beefsteak and kidney pie; and quick cooking (broiling or frying) for lamb and veal kidneys, though they may be made into stew or meat pies, too, if you wish.

How to Prepare Them.

To prepare all kidneys for cooking, plunge them into boiling water, skin them and cut away all stringy parts. Then soak them in cold salted water at least 30 minutes, and dry. Most people like to soak beef kidneys longer (two or three hours), or bring them to a boil in salted water, and drain this off before actually cooking them.

Bacon, onion and mushrooms are first-aids to good kidney dishes. Celery, parsley, mustard, Worcestershire are good teammates, too. And serving something tart along with kidney dishes—pickles, relishes, tomatoes—brings them to their full glory.

Kidneys en Brochette.

For kidneys en Brochette use lamb or veal kidneys prepared as directed above. Then slice them thin, put them on metal skewers with alternating squares of raw bacon and broil till bacon is crisp. Serve with skewers left in. Or place each skewer on a length of hot, buttered toast, then slip skewer out, taking care not to disarrange pieces of meat. (Metal skewers sell for about 3 for 10 cents at any store.) Creamed new potatoes and broiled tomatoes are A-1 with this dish.

Kidney Stew.

For prized kidney stew, start with a large beef kidney, scalded, skinned, trimmed of fat and sinew, and cut into small pieces. Put in a saucepan, cover with cold water, add 1 teaspoon salt, and bring to a boil. Then drain. Put on again, with 1½ cups hot water, and simmer gently 2 hours. Then melt 1 tablespoon butter or bacon fat in another pan, and gently cook 1 cup sliced mushrooms and 3 tablespoons minced onion in it till delicately browned. Add this to kidneys and cook 15 minutes longer. Then thicken stew with 1 tablespoon flour rubbed smooth in 1 tablespoon melted butter. Finally add 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, extra salt and pepper to taste, and serve on toast. Peppers stuffed with cheese and rice and plenty of tart relish are delicious with this.

Deviled Kidneys.

For still another good dish, prepare kidneys as above, and give them the same long cooking. Then, in another pan, make the following sauce: Heat 1½ cups cold water with 2 tablespoons sharp vinegar and small piece of bayleaf. Thicken this with 2 tablespoons flour mixed smooth in 2 tablespoons cold water. Add 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard and a few grains of cayenne pepper. Turn the kidneys into this, mix thoroughly, and simmer 30 minutes. Slick with boiled noodles and buttered green string beans.

Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

Fear of the Dark.

FEAR of the dark often develops mysteriously frot causes impossible to discover and explain away.

The child who has been protected most carefully from talk of the bogieman or burglar or ghosts, who has always gone to bed promptly in a darkened room, suddenly and for no discoverable reason may become hysterically afraid of the dark.

Such fear often yields to little helpful devices and to careful retraining. When it does not, and it is sufficinetly acute to be a real problem, the child may need to be taken to a mental hygenist or a child psychologist for help.

Often the child's fear of the dark seems to be related to the sudden sense of helplessness it gives him, and he is reassured by having an electric light switch by his bed, or, if this is impracticable, a flashligh under his pillow.

The sudden change from the brightly lighted room in which he undressed to complete darkness sometimes seems to be especially frightening.

Leaving the shades up so that light from the street makes the room only half dark and staying with the child casually talking about other things for a few minutes after the light has been put out, gives his eyes time to grow accustomed to the dark and enables him to distinguish familiar outlines so that the room regains some of its reassuring familiarity.

"GEMINI."

IF May 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 a. m. to 10:55 a. m., from 3:15 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:40 a. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Influences operating on this day will make for a good deal of restlessness. Functions, social in nature, should move along at a rapid rate and should afford much amusement and pleasure.

The child born on this May 20 will be inquisitive though not annoyingly so. He will ask a great many questions, but these will prove thought-provoking to those questioned and will be motivated by a desire to learn. Should prove to be a good student.

If May 20 is the date of your birth, you are no doubt a person of considerable vision as well as imagination. Probably your greatest shortcoming is a tendency to be lazy; you do not like to exert yourself. A tendency to procrastinate, while others leap ahead and tackle problems may cost you many a penny and more than one promotion.

Born on May 20, you feel thoroughly at home with all people. This may be due to the fact that you have a rare ability in being able to see through the outer surface of people and see them as they really are. You are a good judge of character. Personnel work would be much to your liking. You are inclined to be a bit too critical and your lightning wit and merciless sarcasm at times causes friction of a personal nature. On the whole, you are not a difficult person to get along with. The women born on this date are unusually hard workers in the home and create a very pleasant atmosphere.

Successful people born on May 20: William G. Fargo, expressman. John Swinburne, physician. George W. Tryon, conchologist. Gustav Cramer, photographer. John Elmer Milholland, publicist. Emil Berliner, inventor.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

COMMISSIONER LAFOUNT sprang quite a surprise with his plan yesterday by which he would have the Government go into the broadcasting of educational programs by short wave.

Mr. Lafount declared that there are approximately 25,000 hours per week of unsold time now being used for sustaining programs. He said that many of the 450 stations of the country not affiliated with the chains and 80 others that broadcast chain programs only a small portion of their time are having difficulty in providing worth-while sustaining programs.

"This time is often used to broadcast material of little entertainment and perhaps of no educational value. I say, generally speaking, this sustaining time is not used as intelligently as it should be," Mr. Lafount said.

"I suggest an inexpensive but effective plan, a portion of which could be put into operation almost immediately.

"Educational programs could, and I believe in the near future will, be broadcast by the Government itself over a few powerful short-wave stations and rebroadcast by existing stations," the commissioner continued. "This would not interfere with local educational programs, and would provide all broadcasters with the finest possible sustaining programs. The whole Nation would be taught by one teacher instead of hundreds, and would be thinking together on one subject of national importance.

"I shall not undertake a description of the mechanics of this proposed plan, other than to say it would be very flexible and inexpensive. I do not consider this a step toward Government ownership or operation of radio broadcasting stations. The Government's activities would be confined to the transmission and wholesale distribution of educational material and discussions of subjects of national importance to all the stations in the United States, and not to the maintenance of any particular station."

THE All-Star After Dinner Club, featuring radio stars of Washington, sponsored by the Borden Co., will make its debut over station WJSV Wednesday, May 24, at 9:30 p. m. With Bob Trout, Washington announcer, as master of ceremonies—to say nothing of his companion of broadcasting, Clyde Hunt—the program will present Marguerite Cromwell, soprano; James Wilkinson, baritone; Strickland Gillilan, Rudolph Schramm's orchestra and a vocal group yet to be announced.

Marguerite Cromwell brings to the show a popularity in the radio audience. Her voice is probably known in every Washington home. Wilkinson has also made many friends.

Schramm has welded together what will doubtless prove to be one of the best, if not the largest, musical organizations of its kind in the city. Fifteen pieces will be under his baton when the show opens.

The last scheduled appearance of "Head Play" on an Eastern racetrack this spring will be "pictured" when Mrs. Silas B. Mason's famous horse competes in the Metropolitan Jockey Club's ninth running of the Wood Memorial Stakes at Jamaica, L. I., this afternoon (WMAL, 3 p. m.).

The beat of the horses' hoofs as they thunder down the home stretch will be picked up by microphones established directly on the finish line. Mobile pack transmitters will be used in the infield to cover the race at the turns and on the backstretch, and a parabolic microphone in front of the judges' stand will catch the ratapian of the hoofbeats and the roar of the crowd in the stands.

QUITE an array of orating talent will be available over the radio today. Senator Borah will be heard as he addresses a meeting of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, in Washington (WMAL, 9 p. m.).

Philip F. La Follette, former Governor of Wisconsin, recently returned from a tour of Europe, will give his "impressions of Russia" in a broadcast over WMAL at 8 p. m.

Raymond Moley, Assistant Secretary of State, one of the members of President Roosevelt's "brain trust," will speak on the forthcoming World Economic Conference in the Institute of Public Affairs over WJSV at 9:15 p. m.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes will impart a few ideas to the Joint Committee on Emergency in Education. (WMAL, 7 p. m.)

Walter Lippmann is to be the speaker at the thirty-fourth annual meeting of Associated Harvard Clubs in Cleveland. (WTIC and WJSV, 1:15 p. m.)

Also there will be a discussion of "Debt and Interest Reduction and Taxation" at a meeting of the People's Lobby, broadcast from the Cosmos Club. (WMAL, 10:30 a. m.)

E. Barrett Prettyman, teacher of the Box Bible Class, Emory M. E. Church South, is to be heard over WMAL at 5 p. m.

Bands from 70 Wisconsin high schools will participate in a tournament to be held at the University of Wisconsin this afternoon, part of which will be heard over WRC at 3 p. m.

GREAT BRITAIN having captured the song of a nightingale for the radio, more than passing importance is attached to the fact that K. H. Berkeley, manager of WRC, has been seen in the early morning hours armed with a microphone in the vicinity of the zoo.

It is rumored that he is endeavoring to catch the dulcet notes of the "Laughing Jackasses" (they're birds) just imported from Australia.

Later. Some one tells us it wasn't a microphone rack Berkeley was carrying, but some brand new golf sticks.

A description of the Princeton-Pennsylvania - Columbia crew race along the Schuykill River in Philadelphia will be heard over WJSV at 5 p. m.

On his Saturday Night Dancing Party program, B. A. Rolfe claims to have led his 40-piece orchestra through an arrangement of the composition, "Dizzy Fingers," in one minute and 55 seconds. There are 59,123 notes in the arrangement, which means that more than 516 notes were played each second, and that each musician played more than 20 notes a second.

Another thing the depression has taught, observes "Rosey" Rowswell, is that the home isn't just a building standing on the same lot with the garage.

LANNY ROSS, tenor, stopped to listen to a soap-box orator in Union Square. He was being interrupted by hecklers and finally blurted out: "There's too many fools here. Wouldn't it be better to hear one at a time?" . . . "Sure," shouted a voice in the crowd, "go on with your speech!"

Theodore Henry, believed to be the only known person now living who was present at the dress rehearsal of the original production of "The Mikado," will describe this experience to the radio audience when selections from the operetta are presented over WMAL at 8:15 p. m.

The day before the seventh Gilbert and Sullivan operetta was produced in London on March 14, 1885, Henry, then a young messenger boy, was sent to the Savoy Theater with a note to D'Oyly Carte, famous producer. He was told to wait for an answer, and so was privileged to watch the noted composer and librettist as they polished up the production for its sensational opening the following evening.

"Sir Arthur stood in the pit beside the music director and gave frequent instructions about the interpretation of the songs," says Henry, who now resides at Mount Vernon, N. Y. "Gilbert stood in the wings, directing the actors, and the two men often conferred over the footlights about some point in the action or the music. They issued their orders firmly and with decision, but in a kindly and courteous manner."

Man Is Without Son But His Gifts Arrive

Portland, Oreg., May 19 (A.P.).—Perhaps a person shouldn't look a gift horse in the mouth, but W. C. Webster, of Portland, has asked police to investigate the source of several articles he has received. Each of the packages, apparently sent by Seattle firms, contains the notation "Ordered for you by your son Ralph."

Webster told police he is certain a mistake has been made. He has no son Ralph.

A New Yorker At Large

By MARK BARRON.

New York — Unintentionally, five years ago, Maxwell Anderson predicted that he would win the Pulitzer Prize.

That, according to my more or less uncertain arithmetic, was on a May day in 1928. While beachcombing along West Forty-fifth street suddenly I was yanked into a taxicab by that meteoric tot of Broadway managers, Jed Harris.

He and Anderson were hurrying to the Pennsylvania terminal to board a de luxe express for the balmier climes of Florida. As our cab whipped in and around traffic down Seventh avenue, Harris began to talk.

A Hit With Jed.

"Listen, mister," he said. "Max here has written one of the grandest plays you'll ever see. It's about Queen Elizabeth and it's all written in iambic pentameter. If it doesn't win the Pulitzer Prize, I'll quit the business and go back peddling advertising."

"No," interposed Anderson quietly. "This one won't win the prize. But I hope that will come later."

Well, Harris got a haywire complex for Russian drama and never did put on the Elizabeth play, but the Theater Guild did and made a fortune with it.

What is more significant is the fact that Anderson next wrote "Both Your Houses" and, just as he said that afternoon five years ago, it did win the Pulitzer award recently announced.

Lynn and Liz.

Which recalls what happened when Lynn Fontanne was called upon to play the role of Elizabeth in Anderson's earlier play. For days she experimented with her make-up for the part—a difficult assignment because Elizabeth was supposed to be a dynamic and fascinating person, yet at the same time far from beautiful.

Day after day she appeared at rehearsals in different make-ups, until, finally, her director exclaimed:

"If I should see an old cactus plant walking in the door, I should merely think that here comes Lynn to play Elizabeth."

City Rules Goat Milk Must Be Graded A or B

Laredo, Tex., May 19 (A.P.).—Goats are almost as numerous as cows in the Rio Grande Valley, but the Laredo city council didn't know there were so many ardent consumers of the capric beverage until the city milk inspector decided it should be graded "A" and "B," just like cow's milk.

He closed three goat dairies that failed to grade it so. Now the council is trying to "separate the goats from the cows," as it peruses a barrage of complaints from goat milk drinkers.

Oil and Metal Stocks Rally, Trimming Loss to Fraction

Three-Tenths Drop Staged as Turnover Sags to 3,289,162 Shares.

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—Oil and metal issues came out on top in today's stock trading; otherwise the market lagged and was mostly lower at closing time.

Refusal of the rails to penetrate last September's average high and thereby confirm the previous advance of industrials above their autumn peaks was a technical development that doubtless made many chart followers wary. The market has two advances and three declines to its credit so far this week and this hesitancy after a full month of almost uninterrupted rise had hardly passed unnoticed. Volume still tapers off as prices ease, today's turnover being 3,289,162 shares.

Oil stocks got their chief impetus from the administration's measure to assist the industry through proper enforcement of conservation laws. Several petroleum company executives have spoken hopefully of the prospects for Government aid along these lines; the extent of which the oil business has been deranged was amply illustrated in Standard of New Jersey's 1932 report, but with assistance in the offing market circles were disposed to overlook that statement and several leading oil shares rose a point or more.

Industrials were a little soggy, though losses were only fractional for U. S. Steel, General Electric, General Motors, Chrysler, Harvester, Case, National Biscuit, National Cash Register and Bethlehem. American Telephone, American Can and Allied Chemical, three of the week's highest fliers, sagged a couple of points. North American, DuPont, Santa Fe, Delaware & Hudson, Louisville, American Sugar and National Distillers were down one or more. Anaconda, Kennecott, International Nickel and U. S. Smelting firmed, although gains were not fully held. There has been some talk of further efforts to raise copper prices as well as to reduce production meanwhile, some progress appears to have been made in reducing stocks above ground.

Retail and wholesale trade is still expanding, according to the latest surveys, although Dun & Bradstreet reported that the advance by general business had assumed a slower pace. "The force of the buying movement," said the review, "now has carried wholesale trade substantially ahead of last year's in many divisions, in both dollar totals and units, with cotton goods well to the fore." Orders for some products are being extended well into the fall season as buyers seek to take advantage of current prices.

Stocks.

Oil and metal issues climbed to the top in trading and minimized general losses on the list. Declines were trimmed to three-tenths of a point. Sales decreased to 3,289,162 shares.

Bonds.

Prices again reached new highs for the year. Trading volume dwindled to $12,227,000. The average gain was two-tenths of a point.

Curb.

Trends shifted constantly, but prices closed higher. Oil shares firmed and held most of their gains. The volume of trading dropped to 421,000 shares.

Wheat.

Values dropped on the estimated carry-over supply. Better corn weather resulted in easing of prices for that grain. Oats joined in the declines. May wheat sold at 70¼ cents.

Cotton.

Prices sagged under renewed realising and liquidating. The market closed down 8 to 13 points. July sold at 8.45. Liverpool reported liquidating and hedge selling had been taken by trade calling.

BOND PRICES REACH NEW HIGHS FOR YEAR

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—While bond market prices were moderately conflicting today, and trading volume dwindled, the list, as a whole, managed to creep up to another new high level for the year.

Sales totaled $12,227,000, par value, compared with $15,509,000 yesterday, and the average for 60 domestic corporate loans advanced two-tenths of a point to 73.4.

The market generally was rather colorless. There was profit taking in a number of issues, and these shaded their quotations. Various industrials and rails, however, encouraged by firming trade trends and indications of improved freight car loadings were in demand at gains of fractions to a point or more. Several oil company bonds improved on the belief that Federal regulation of production was an imminent probability.

Price Boom in Hops Ends Lean Years for Growers

Salem, Oreg., May 19 (A.P.).—Twelve lean years have ended for hop growers and the price boom resulting from the return of legal beer has saved many from bankruptcy.

Now, with hops at 75 cents a pound and scant supplies in sight, there is eager bidding for the chance to acquire new acreage in the world-famous Willamette Valley producing belt. The return of foamy steins of legal beer has been responsible for boosting the hop price 65 cents a pound higher than general quotations in the prosperity year of 1929.

But in some quarters gloom persists. Many growers are profiting little by the tremendous price gain. They are the ones whose crops were contracted in leaner years at prices from 11 to 15 cents a pound and the contracts have several years to go.

These growers are making every effort to increase their acreage so that crops now being planted will bring a price to offset the low return from the old yards.

Romeo Gouley, State legislator as well as a prominent hop grower, said today that while probably not more than 5 per cent of the 1932 hop crop has been or will be sold at the high prices, a return of more than $1,250,000 to the Oregon hop growers the past month has erased thousands of dollars in debts and has eased credit.

Of the growers who produced the other 95 per cent, Gouley said, "It wasn't a case of wisdom in holding the crop for the return of beer. It was a choice between starvation and food.

CURB ISSUES HIGHER IN LIGHTER TRADING

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—Trends shifted constantly on the Curb Exchange today, but the list was irregularly higher at the finish. Oil shares firmed early and maintained a goodly part of their advances to the close. Utilities lagged most of the day.

Aluminum Co., among the industrials, suffered further reaction, losing a point.

Among the oils, Gulf rose 1½, while advances of fractions to a point were shown in Humble, International Petroleum and Standard of Indiana. Mining shares were narrowly mixed.

Transactions today totaled 421,000 shares, compared to yesterday's turnover of 528,000.

WHEAT VALUES SINK ON CARRY-OVER DATA

Better Corn Weather Cuts Prices; Oats Join in Grain Declines.

Chicago, May 19 (A.P.).—Faced by an official estimate that the United States carryover of wheat on July 1 would be triple the normal amount, grain prices weakened today.

Indications of clearing weather in the corn belt tended also to pull values down. A statement from the Department of Agriculture putting the Nation's prospective carryover of wheat at 360,000,000 bushels said winter wheat losses and inflation talk were not a guarantee of a permanent higher price level in view of large acreage.

Wheat closed unstable, ¼ to ⅝ under yesterday's finish; Corn, ½ to ⅝ down; oats, ½ to ¾ off, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 22 cents.

Prices Reach Bottom.

At one stage today, wheat prices reached the bottommost point since May 9, but recovered part of the losses in the late dealings, although persistent offerings kept coming into the pit. Favorable conditions for the new domestic spring crop did much to stimulate selling, and to act as a handicap on buyers.

In addition to the bearish influence of the prospective large end-of-the-season domestic stock of wheat, notice was taken of an authoritative unofficial estimate that world wheat carryover July 1 would total 1,006,000,000 bushels, compared with 976,000,000 last year.

Many wheat traders focused attention on reports of progress of the new spring wheat crop.

Growth Best in Years.

Some advices said the start of growth was the best in five years, and that between Minneapolis and Fargo, N. Dak., wheat was almost 5 inches high and very rich in color.

Seeding of spring wheat in the Canadian prairie provinces was reported to have made a rapid advance, but it was added the season there was much later than usual, especially in northern areas.

Prior to indications of clearing weather, corn advanced on account of heavy rains in parts of Illinois and Iowa. Later, the market fell 2 cents from the top, with stop-loss selling evident. Oats mainly followed corn.

Provisions went lower with hog values.

COTTON PRICES SAG ON REALIZING DRIVE

July Closes at 8.45 With General Market Down 8 to 13 Points.

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—Cotton sagged a bit today under renewed realising or liquidation, which appeared to be influenced by the easier ruling of the grain and stock markets.

July broke to 8.45 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 8 to 13 points.

Initial prices were 5 to 10 points lower in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables, scattering liquidation and selling through houses with foreign connections.

Late Rally Fails.

Later the market recovered this loss but near the close offerings increased and prices dipped sharply. Closing quotations were at the lowest levels of the day on all positions, with December selling around 8.85.

The continued absence of rains in West Texas was considered unfavorable, but otherwise the generally clearer weather reported in the South suggested favorable crop prospects.

Rumors of labor troubles in one of the large New England mills may have had a somewhat unsettling effect in the last few minutes, but much of the day's selling was attributed to further readjustments of the technical position.

Liverpool cables said that liquidation and hedge selling had been taken by trade calling there but that the demand for cotton cloths and yarns was less active due to lack of confidence in present values. Exports today, 38,448, making 6,989,057 so far this season. Port receipts, 94,947. U. S. port stocks, 4,048,801.

CHISOX POUND OUT 17 HITS TO BEAT NATS, 10 TO 1

Thomas Sent To Showers In Fifth

McAfee and Russell Also Fail to Hold Foe in Check

Washington Sends in Reserves in 7th; 12,000 Watch.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

THE supposedly sock-less White Sox unraveled seventeen base hits against some alleged Washington pitching yesterday. They divorced Bridegroom Al Thomas from the ball game as early as the fifth inning, cruelly assaulted Bill McAfee's curves in the sixth, and became very intimate with Jack Russell's offerings later in the game.

Meanwhile, the Nats were exceedingly meek in their behavior against young Paul Gregory and the first game of the series passed into the keeping of Chicago by the highly sufficient score of 10 to 1. Twelve thousand sufferers were in the stands.

It was ladies' day, and it proved contagious for the Nats. Against Gregory they were very much effeminate with their bats. For seven innings they had no runs and only two hits to show for the extremely lady-like efforts on the offensive. Then a crew of Washington substitutes went into the game and robbed Gregory of a shut-out. Before that advent in the seventh, second base was virgin territory to the Nats.

Won But One Game Here Last Year.

The game marked the debut of the refurbished Sox in Washington and they equalled in the afternoon their Griffith Stadium record of last season, when they won only one game on local soil. And in view of the manner in which Gregory was pitching, they had equalled their 1932 record here as early as the fourth inning, when they got their second run off Thomas.

Manager Cronin conceded defeat in the seventh, when he benched himself along with four others and permitted most of the Nats' reserves to unlimber themselves in competition, and only then did the Washington hit total take on a respectable slant, for during six innings only Al Thomas and Luke Sewell were able to solve Gregory for a base hit.

Al Simmons, the pulverizing Pole, poled one against the right-field fence for three bases in the second and scored on Kress' single in the Sox's first belligerent gesture, and they had a two-run lead when Appling doubled to left and Grube got a single by grace of the gods on a soft pop over Thomas' head that landed at Cronin's feet.

Score Three Runs In Fifth.

The Sox came up with three more hits in the fifth, mixed them with an error by Schulte and a base on balls and scored three runs. Hayes, Appling and Dykes provided the propelling power with singles, and two were on when McAfee retired the side.

But McAfee did not last the next inning. He walked Gregory, Swanson and Webb clouted doubles, Simmons and Appling socked singles, McAfee wild pitched one run home and the Sox scored their fifth run of the inning when Kress singled off Jack Russell.

Some high-handed robbery in the early innings by Gregory's supporting cast kept the Nats away from the plate. Kress' diving stop turned Travis' whistling smash into a force-out and the things they have been saying about the slow-footedness of Earl Webb in right field aren't true. He galloped along the border line of the fence to make a one-handed catch

KidChocolate Victor Over Watson

12,000 Watch Cuban Floor Foe; Verdict Is Unanimous.

By ALAN GOLD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, May 18 (A.P.).—A flash of ebony fighting fury caught Seaman Tom Watson, of Old England, unexpectedly tonight, bowled him over briefly and sustained sufficient force to clinch a 15-round victory over the sturdy Briton for Cuba's Kid Chocolate, still the featherweight champion of the world so far as New York—and probably London—are concerned.

Before a yelling crowd of 12,000 that forsook a balmy May evening for the battle pit, contributing to a gate of $30,000, Chocolate rallied from a poor start to carry off the unanimous decision of Referee Pete Hartley and the two judges. The Cuban Kid, on the Associated Press score sheet, carried off eight rounds and won decisively. Watson, game to the finish, was credited with five rounds, while two were even.

Most of the drama of the fight, hard and somewhat bitterly fought most of the way, was packed into the tenth round, when Chocolate at the peak of his decisive rally, floored Watson with a looping left hand to the jaw. Seaman Tom almost turned a complete somersault from the combined force of the blow and his own frantic efforts to escape Chocolate's furious, two-fisted rush, but he refused to take advantage of a long count and bobbed up after two strokes of the timekeeper's mallet.

With characteristic frenzy, Chocolate ripped and slashed into his rallying rival, forcing Tom to cover his face and thin thatch of hair with gloved hands as he sought an escape. Weathering this gale, Watson, although still pale and shaky, fought back courageously and managed a wink at his handlers as he wobbled to his corner at the end of the round.

Two Tiger Rallies Beat Red Sox, 7-5

Boston, May 19 (A.P.).—The rejuvenated Boston Red Sox took a 3-to-0 lead in the first two innings of their game with the Detroit Tigers today, then had a relapse and dropped the tilt, 7 to 5.

Nobody likes a fellow who is "flip," but . . . smart men are enthusing over the new-style coin that Grosner's "flipping." The matched set idea is sweeping the town. For instance, there's the DEAL; it's a clever matched set of a coat of principally camel's hair, glen-plaid, pinch and yoke back style with notch lapel, a waistcoat of imported linen and . . . all-worsted gabardine slack trousers. Gentlemen . . . the price —it's matchless.

U. S. Netmen Triumph in Canada

Zone Final Clinched as Lott-Van Ryn Team Scores.

MONTREAL, May 19 (A.P.).—The United States Davis Cup team advanced another step in quest of the famous international tennis trophy today when George Lott, jr., and John Van Ryn defeated Marcel Rainville and Dr. Jock Wright, of Canada, to clinch the North American zone final and send the team into the interzone final against Argentina, at Washington, D. C., next week. The score was 6—1, 6—3, 6—3, as the invading team registered its third straight and decisive victory.

Two more singles matches will be played tomorrow, with Vines meeting Wright and Allison matching strokes with Gilbert Nunns.

The veteran doubles combination was as effective as Ellswo.h Vines and Wilmer Allison were in scoring singles triumphs yesterday. Less than 45 minutes of battling under overcast skies, in contrast to yesterday's sunshine, was sufficient to give Lott and Van Ryn their victory.

Rainville and Wright made a brave stand against the smooth-working Americans, but they were outclassed.

Lott, long recognized as one of the best doubles players in the world, was at the top of his form. His powerful stroking and volleying combined brilliancy with the cool and resourceful work of Van Ryn. They were especially deadly at the net, although they also outclassed the Canadian team from the back court.

A's Rout Indians Behind Mahaffey

Philadelphia, May 19 (A.P.).—Driving three pitchers off the mound with a thirteen-hit barrage, the Philadelphia Athletics hammered out a 9-to-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians in the opener of a two-game series today.

While Roy Mahaffey was allowed only five hits to win his third game of the season against no defeats, his teammates bombarded Brown, Connally and Bean with a series of hits in the second, third, fourth and fifth innings to score all their runs.

Cards Rally in Eighth, Defeat Giants in Tenth

St. Louis, May 19 (A.P.).—The Cardinals cut loose after they apparently had lost a ball game today, scored 5 runs in the eighth inning to tie it up and came through with another in the tenth for an 8-to-7 victory over the New York Giants in the first game of their series.

In the tenth, two walks off Adolfo Luque, one intentional, and a hit by Pepper Martin loaded the sacks. Pat Crawford then singled in the winning run.

Tech Defeats Central by 5-2 Score

Nau's Homer Clinches Game; Maroon Nine Nears Crown.

Turner Pitches Third Victory; 1,000 See Fast Game.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

A GLEAMING white baseball sailed over the center-field fence at Eastern Stadium yesterday, carrying with it Central's hopes for the 1933 interhigh school championship. Approximately 1,000 fans saw the favored Blue and White team upset by a fighting Tech nine, 5-2, in a game replete with thrilling plays.

Driven out of the inclosure by a lusty blow from "Smitty" Nau's bat, the hit scored Waverly Wheeler, who previously had scored Charley Sullivan from second with a scorching line drive down the left field foul line. The runs were Tech's first of the game and enabled it to come from behind into possession of a 3-2 lead which it never relinquished.

Eddie Turner pitched the Maroon and Gray to its third consecutive series victory, virtually clinching the title. Tech must win over Roosevelt in its final game to gain a clear claim to the honors.

Claude Cowan hurled for Central and fanned eight, twice as many as Turner, and granted two less hits than his rival, but Tech's batters delivered at opportune moments when hits meant runs.

Nau's game-winning blow rattled off his bat in the sixth inning, but not satisfied with its margin Tech added two runs in the eighth, definitely settling the issue. Sullivan opened the round with his third hit of the fray, stealing second after Williams fanned.

Wheeler dumped a Texas leaguer in right field, Sullivan scoring. Wheeler going to second on the throw-in. Nau came through with another hit, bringing Wheeler home with Tech's fifth and final run.

Turner pulled out of a hole in the sixth inning when Central threatened to tie the score. Buddy Nau opened with a long triple to right-center field. Gregorio beat out an infield hit, Nau holding third, but was thrown out at second which he attempted to make on the next pitch. De Lisio rolled to Turner, who held Nau at third and threw the batter out, and Cowan ended the frame by ingloriously striking out.

Central's last feeble gesture occurred in the eighth inning when Bryant walked and Gregorio singled. But De Lisio hit into a double play and Nau flied out to his cousin in left field.

YANKEES WIN; BRENNAN FANS 12

NEW YORK, May 19 (A.P.).—Don Brennan, husky right hander, who was the leading pitcher of the International League last season, won his fourth straight game for the Yankees today, but he left the fans with a few heart palpitations before he finally came through with a 6 to 5 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

Brennan breezed along in great style for the first seven frames, while the Yanks piled up a 4-0 lead, largely through Bill Dickey's home run with one aboard in the second. Then he tired badly in the last two frames and almost lost the game before Herb Pennock came in to retire the last two batsmen.

In his tenure on the hill Brennan gave only 6 hits, struck out 12 and gave 8 passes.

BELOW COST TAKES FEATURE AT BOWIE AND PAYS $11.40

Dabson Hurt By Fall in 2d Race

Home Work Betters Rewarded in 5th by $51 Mutuel.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

BELOW COST, a son of Bubbling Over, made a show of his field in the fourth race that served feature purposes before an ordinary crowd. J. Renick, who took the mount when Dabson was injured in the second race, went about his work on the colt in a business-like manner. He hustled him to the front at the start and it was a case of trying to catch the horse, which is owned and trained by C. S. Bancroft. However, there was none in the field capable of turning the trick.

At the finish, Dunfern was closest and he was three lengths behind, with Uncle Donald, the public choice, another two lengths away. Below Cost was four lengths in front at the clubhouse turn in the mile and a sixteenth test. Renick gave him a breather going up the backstretch while Uncle Donald was burning oil to keep up and then turned the colt loose in the stretch to draw away Uncle Donald managed to swing on to third money.

Below Cost was well liked and there was a hot tip on Spanish which drew much play. The winning mutuel was $11.40.

Long Shots Have Their Innings.

It was another summer day at the nearby track and longshot and favorite players had their innings.

Lough Port, backed into favoritism, acounted for the second race which was marked by accident. Renewed was second, and Moon Shy third. Gadaround, owned by Max Smarts, of Washington, and Rea, fell at the far turn. Young Hilton Dabson, who has been riding great guns around Maryland this spring, had the mount on Gadaround and appeared to be moving the gelding through a gap when the horse fell. Rea tripped over the sprawling Gadaround.

W. Hileman, up on Rea, limped back to the jockeys' room apparently only bruised, and took the mount on Todd Zev in the next race.

Dabson received first aid treatment from Dr. William B. Dalton, track physician, and then was sent to the South Baltimore General Hospital in the track ambulance.

Physicians tonight said he was suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, contusions about the body, especially the chest, and abrasions just below the eyes.

Dabson lives at Greensboro, Md.

Home Work handed the boys a surprise in the fifth race when he stepped home ahead of Foxiana and Annemesic to pay a $51 mutuel. Cruz did the riding and circled the leaders to pull away in the stretch.

LODORUS, away forwardly and stoutly handled, displaced INDIANOLE when leaving the back stretch and holding on stoutly, outstayed TOPPLE. Latter entered contention swiftly, made a strong effort at the stretch turn and then continued resolutely at the end. IDLE ALONG, prominent all the way, outfinished SCOUT CHIEF. Latter worked his way up on the outside and came strongly at the finish. LIBERTY OAK was rushed hard in the early stages and flattened out during the final furlong. SOURCE CIRCLE was racing stoutly at the end. THE BAILIFF was taken up at the break and fell far back. THIS PLAY could not threaten the leaders.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:02. Off at 3:06. Winner, Mrs. J. C. Eisenhardt's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LOUGH PORT, $4.80, $3.00, $2.40; RENEWED, $4.20, $2.60; MOON SHY, $2.80.

LOUGH PORT wore PADDOCK down after the opening furlong, saved ground thereafter and, holding on willingly, had enough left to withstand RENEWED. Latter moved up strongly approaching the home stretch, was inclined to swerve to the inside, and had to be straightened out sharply. He closed courageously. MOON SHY, slow to get into her best stride, came to the outside and finished strong. PADDOCK had good speed under strong handling and held on well. DARK AYR was outrun. NEALON KAY went wide while having early speed. RUTH TIDINGS stopped. REA and GADAROUND fell when leaving the back stretch.

THIRD RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $800. For maiden 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:35. Off at 3:37½. Winner, M. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MY COUNSELLOR, $10.60, $5.20, $3.20; HELP ME, $3.40, $2.40; BROAD BILL, $3.80.

MY COUNSELLOR, shuffled back going to the first turn and forced out by TODD ZEV when reaching the back stretch, gained resolutely to reach the leaders, were down BROAD BILL and drew out easily through the final furlong. HELP ME, rated in near attendance of the leaders, entered contention when ready, but was no match for the winner. BROAD BILL, reserved in back of CANTERT and AXENTEA, went to the front under a drive, but was weakened badly in the closing drive. MONEL was held safe. PELHAM lacked early speed and was never formidable. CANTERT and AXENTEA stopped.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:03. Off at 4:10½. Winner, C. S. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BELOW COST, $11.40, $6.80, $3.40; DUNFERN, $5.20, $2.80; UNCLE DONALD, $2.60.

BELOW COST, quick to begin and saving much ground at the first turn, was given a breathing spell before leaving the back stretch, shook off a strong effort from UNCLE DONALD and came out steadily during the final drive. DUNFERN, outrun in the first six furlongs, responded to punishment and closed with good speed. UNCLE DONALD, forced wide at the first turn, moved to the pacemaker, but tired fast in the final quarter mile. UNENCUMBERED raced strongly early, but could not stay when the real test came. LONE HAND was never a factor. SPANISH stopped entire.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:34. Off at 4:36½. Winner, A. Two-dollar mutuels paid—HOME WORK, $51.00, $26.60, $8.60; FOXIANA, $9.60, $7.00; ANNIMESSIC, $5.00.

HOMEWORK, forwardly placed and going in his best form, responded strongly when put to a drive, drew into an easy lead when straightened into the home stretch and, forced to a mile drive approaching the finish, had enough left to stall off FOXIANA. Latter, racing BALLY RAY into submission, came again right at the end. ANNIMESSIC, forced to race on the outside, was gaining steadily in the final drive. POLAR BRUSH, reserved off the pace, slipped through on the inside at the stretch turn and kept under strong handling and held on well. DARK AYR was outrun. NEALON KAY went wide while having early speed. RUTH TIDINGS stopped. REA and GADAROUND fell when leaving the back stretch.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DARK VISION, $13.20, $5.40, $4.20; FAIRLY WILD (field), $3.80; LIGHT BREEZE, $4.40.

DARK VISION, rushed to the first turn and moving into a clear lead, was steadied along until challenged, responded readily and held LIGHT BREEZE safe. Latter worked her way up on the outside, but failed to make any ground in the late stages. FAIRLY WILD raced close up and had no excuses. ROAD, away slowly, improved his position on the outside to finish strongly. OUR PA was racing stoutly at the end. WAR TIDE showed speed in spots. SKIRT had no excuses. THE TOUT was pulled up going to the first turn, and was messed about thereafter.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:38. Off at 5:41½. Winner, J. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TUFFY O., $5.80, $3.20, $2.40; AXENBY, $5.80, $4.40; BRIGHT DAY, $3.80.

TUFFY O., away in a tangle, and forced to go to the outside for racing room when reaching the back stretch, entered into contention rapidly in the last half mile, came through on the inside at the stretch turn and drew out stoutly. AXENBY improved his position gradually, finished gamely when moving up and outstayed BRIGHT DAY. Latter gained fast in the last five furlongs, bore over during the stretch run and faltered right at the end. REVELATION, a keen factor early, tired in the final drive. FETISH had no excuses. HIGH SOCKS could not enter contention. CLOUDY DAY and FUSCO stopped.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: BOWIE RACE TRACK.

Well, friend, here it is Saturday and we still have a dollar or two. I can't say we got it off the Bennings selections, which have only been fair the past few days. But the meeting is young and we still hold hope. Certainly was a tough break for young Dabson today—I mean that spill on Gadaround. Dabson has been doing a lot of hard, honest riding this spring and we are glad that news from the Baltimore hospital indicates that he will recover. BILL.

FIRST RACE—STONE MARTIN has been carefully prepped for this. Although generally needing the route, this veteran has the early foot to take care of this field. First out in a long time but fit. MISS CORRINE will like a sprint. WAR BANNER to show.

SECOND RACE—MONEL ran a powerful race the last time out, but Dabson picked the wrong place to try to give her a breather. I expect a different ride today and a set of brackets. BROAD MEADOWS appears to be up to a race if we are to listen to the trials reported. SILVERDALE clings to some class and may be third.

THIRD RACE—WISE DAUGHTER gets my call. She has worked well and has those fine races to recommend her. PIETY gets weight from the top one and should take care of the place ahead of SNAPPY STORY.

FOURTH RACE—ACAUTAW gets enough weight from FAIRBYPAIR to make this an interesting race with a chance for the Trueman-trained representative to upset the apple cart. Right at top form. FAIRBYPAIR should beat RUSH HOUR for the show.

FIFTH RACE—SPRINGSTEEL ran a bang-up race here opening day and appears capable of taking care of this field. CLOTHO is a possibility. The Whitney representative was blocked in a pile-up at the first turn the other day. KINSCEN will be right there with a closing finish, but may want more route.

SIXTH RACE—STAR PORTER was forced into third money behind that battle of Cuttie Face and Illusive here, but should show to better in this. STEPPIN HIGH has some fast trials and may be the upsetter. BAND WAGON is a show possibility.

SEVENTH RACE—BIDE A WEE shapes up best here but is unlikely to get in action. MAINSHEET is as dangerous as those recent races reveal. SOEUR BLANCHE must be rated high if she starts.

Cronin Relies On Weaver For Today

Lyon's Likely Choice of Chisox; Notes of 2d Game.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

MANAGER JOE CRONIN plans to stick to his prearranged plans of working nothing but right-handers against the White Sox, and Prof. Monte Weaver will get the call this afternoon in the second game of the set of three. On theory, at least—and it didn't work out this way yesterday—orthodox flingers hold an edge over right-handed hitters and the White Sox, excluding the pitcher, have but one southpaw hitter in their line-up. He, Mule Haas, is out because of a three-day suspension which will let him get back in the game here tomorrow, but it so happens that Earl Webb, former Nat who is subbing for him, also hits from the wrong side of the plate. Ted Lyons, veteran, who is taking a new lease on life this season, is expected to do the flinging for the White Sox.

Lou Fonseca, manager of the Chicagoans, who badly injured an ankle last April 21, is working out daily and expects to take over his old job at first within the next few days. Red Kress has been filling in for him.

Kress, by the way, made a great play in the second yesterday when he robbed Cecil Travis of a hit with a nobby back-hand stop. He had no chance to nip the runner, but Schulte was on first and was forced at the middle sack.

Luke Appling, White Sox shortstop, never has impressed in Washington as a good fielder, but he plays well in every other city in the circuit. His fumble of Schulte's roller in the second yesterday was his first error in 82 chances.

Earl Webb made one of those "can't be done" catches at Buddy Myer's expense to rob the Nats of a run and Buddy of at least a double. He grabbed a liner in the finger-tips of outstretched gloved hand after a long run almost to the foul line in right.

Goslin lofted one over the right-field wall in the eighth, but it curved foul and was nothing more than a beautiful strike.

300 IN "C" TRACK MEET TODAY

Eastern High Faces Task To Repeat

Mercersburg Offers Greatest Threat to D. C. Teams.

MORE than 300 athletes spring away from the barrier today at Central High School in the the fifteenth annual "C" Club track and field meet. The games will start promptly at 1:30 p. m.

Victor in the last two meets, Eastern High School must overcome stern opposition to chalk up its third consecutive win and gain permanent possession of the Cornell Cup. Tech and Woodberry Forest also have two legs on the trophy.

Mercersburg Academy represents the greatest threat to a District team's victory. The Pennsylvanians are sending a small, but powerful group to the games and are highly regarded by veteran observers.

Other schools expected to make strong bids for honors are John Marshall High, of Richmond, Va.; Episcopal High School, of Alexandria; Forest Park, of Baltimore; Tome Institute, Massanutten Military Academy and Sparrows Point High School.

Harmon Entered In High Jumps.

Woodberry Forest will be represented by Ed Harmon in the high jump, a lad who has been clearing the bar at better than 6 feet in recent meets. Holland, of John Marshall, who finished second in the mile run last year, will attempt to land the No. 1 position this time, in addition to the half-mile run.

Three relay races feature the meet. The "C" Club 1-mile relay will be for the Gene Casey Trophy. A half-mile and sprint medley are included in the group.

A meet for junior high schools will be held in conjunction with the senior meet, the winner to receive the Sprigman Trophy. Five schools have entered teams in this division. The George Hamilton Memorial Trophy will be awarded the team finishing second in the high school division. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded to individual point scorers.

Braves Halt Pirates For 5-to-3 Triumph

Pittsburgh, May 19 (A.P.).—The Boston Braves, refusing to act like a second division team in the presence of the league leaders, checked the Pirates' winning streak after four straight games by unloosing an early attack that netted them a 5-to-3 victory in the series opener today.

Boston climbed all over Waite Hoyt, Pittsburgh veteran, scoring three runs in the first inning and sending him to the showers with another assault in the third.

Rosedale Is Outstanding In Relay Carnival Finals

THE finals of the Department of Playgrounds first annual relay carnival were held last night at the Griffith Stadium and the 160 boys who had survived the Wednesday night preliminaries presented a picturesque scene galloping over the green outfield under the lights for team and playground honors.

Rosedale was the only four that succeeded in annexing two first places. The northeast boys also placed in every one of the five events except in the unlimited class. Eckington and Virginia Avenue did well, but the places were so evenly distributed that there were few individual honors.

Before the relays all of the 160 contestants were awarded sweatshirts bearing the seal of the District and surrounding the seal are the words, "Athletics" " Department of Playgrounds." At the close of the relay carnival the youngsters paraded behind the band in a circle around the park, wearing the coveted sweatshirts.

Among the spectators were Clark Griffith, president of the Washington ball club, and Eddie Eynon, secretary of the club. Miss Sibyl Baker, supervisor of playgrounds, was on hand to congratulate Coach Ben Kall of Rosedale for his part in carrying his team to victory.

70-POUND CLASS—220-yard relay, won by Eckington (P. Cheakales, R. Montgomery, A. Mostow, Durkin); second, Rosedale (B. Simons, V. Murphy, H. Nascelle, B. Dorr); third, Hamilton (J. Davis, B. Driscoll, G. Chaconas, B. Kanelopoulis).

85-POUND CLASS—360-yard relay, won by Rosedale (L. Cookesey, J. Biondi, D. Boyd, F. Burke); second, Georgetown (W. Cross, M. Vernon, W. Toole, M. Shumaker); third, Wheatley (J. Fuller, W. Harris, I. Whitehurst, E. Coxen).

100-POUND CLASS—360-yard relay, won by Virginia Avenue (J. Silver, G. Russell, H. Fletcher, H. Walter); second, Eckington (D. Newcomb, J. Lassiter, J. Roland, J. Durkin); third, Rosedale (J. Flanagan, L. Botts, R. Mascella, L. Neefield).

Homer, Bases Full, Downs G. W., 9-6

A home run with the bases full by Frank Cumberland, former Central High School star, gave Western Maryland a lead which it never relinquished and which sent George Washington's Colonials home on the short end of a 9-to-6 count last night. Cumberland's big blow came in the fifth inning and erased a 4-to-2 advantage which G. W. was holding at the time.

Jimmy Howell had just relieved Heine Weingartner as G. W.'s starting pitcher and Cumberland was the first to face him. His hit rolled to the wall in deep center field and enabled Hurley, Fowble and Lipsky to complete the circuit before him. An attendance of 2,200 witnessed the contest during which the Elks Boys Band furnished music.

Top figures are high tide.

The above predictions give the times the water is high and low. Slack water (time of turn of current) occurs somewhat later. In Chesapeake Bay, midchannel, between Chesapeake Beach and Annapolis, flood and ebb currents begin about 3 to 4 hours after low and high water, respectively, by the shore. At other places given in the table slack waters occur from ½ to 1½ hours after the times of low and high water.

STOCK DRIVE BEGUN BY MERGER BANKS

Many Depositors Volunteer to Share in Subscribing $1,250,000.

Six local banks thus far aligned in the plan to merge and reopen as the new Hamilton National Bank of Washington, began preparations for their stock subscription campaign yesterday.

These banks, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., District National Bank, Potomac Savings Bank, Washington Savings Bank, Woodridge-Langdon Savings & Commercial Bank and Northeast Savings Bank, must secure $1,250,000 worth of stock subscriptions from their depositors, stockholders and the Washington public to open the new bank which will make available immediately 50 per cent of all deposits of the banks concerned, or approximately $10,000,000.

A most favorable reaction to the plan has been reported by all the affected banks. Many depositors have come to the banks to subscribe. Edwin C. Graham, slated as president for the proposed institution, is highly encouraged regarding success of the plan, as are officials of the component institutions.

Northeast Bank Meeting.

Definite plans by the individual institutions committed to the plan are taking shape. Northeast Savings Bank officials have sent out an invitation to all those who subscribed to stock in its original plan to reopen independently to attend a meeting at Stuart Junior High School at Fourth and E streets northeast Monday night at 8 o'clock.

This audience will be informed why the Northeast Savings Bank reorganization committee abandoned the original plan in favor of the merger. They will be asked to convert their present subscriptions to the original plan into stock for the latest. President Graham, of the prospective new bank, and W. Irving Shuman, Treasury Department, are expected to attend.

Under the original plan, depositors of this institution were asked to waive 25 per cent of their deposits. Under the merger plan they are asked for but 10 per cent, or not to exceed 12½ per cent. Northeast Savings Bank's quota under the new plan is $100,000 worth of stock. Under the original plan $250,000 was necessary.

Washington Savings Quota.

The quota of Washington Savings Bank will be approximately $60,000 and its campaign will begin Monday or Tuesday, when those of Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., and Potomac Savings Bank also are expected to be under way. Quotas for the two last institutions have not yet been announced. That of Potomac Savings Bank under its original plan to reopen as an individual national bank, was set at $500,000 and more than half of this amount was reported as having been subscribed before the plan was abandoned in favor of the consolidation arrangement.

District National Bank is proceeding under its original plan announced May 7, insofar as stock subscription is concerned. Its plan was designed on a flexible base which permitted either the establishment of a new national bank by its own stockholders and depositors or in a combination with other banks. Under the merger plan, District National Bank and Potomac Savings Bank will have lower quotas than the original ones of $400,000 and $500,000, respectively.

Following a chase on the Baltimore boulevard from Hyattsville to Riverdale, Md., Prince Georges County police early yesterday captured an automobile carrying eight 5-gallon cans of alleged alcohol.

The driver of the car, Frank M. Rowley, 3819 Georgia avenue northwest, was overtaken by Officer Claude A. Reese. Rowley is being held at the Hyattsville Jail on a charge of illegal possession and transportation of liquor.

DEADLOCK PERSISTS ON D. C. SUPPLY BILL

House and Senate Conferees Again Adjourn, Far From Accord.

House conferees on the District appropriations bill ran true to form yesterday, refusing to yield on every salient provision in the local supply measure.

While chairmen of both House and Senate conference groups insisted there was no "deadlock," for the second time in two days the conferees adjourned just as far from agreement as when the conference was called.

Following the session, Senator Elmer Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, made clear that the Senate is not going to do all the yielding so far as local appropriations are concerned.

A similar attitude on the part of House conferees forced a "deadlock" last session, broken only by the intervention of Representative Joseph W. Byrns, then House Appropriations chairman. Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, most adamant of the House conferees, afterward blocked passage of the bill in the House. Blanton is sitting in on the present conference.

Although the Senate committee actually reduced the total of the appropriation bill, the present quarrel is over the Senate's use of unexpended balances to provide for school and other needs disregarded by the House. The Federal "lump sum" offers another issue. The House bill provides $5,700,000. The Senate bill allows $6,250,000.

Drunken Driver Sent To Jail for 3 Months

Louis Lynch, of Meadows, Md., was sentenced to six months in jail yesterday by Judge J. Chew Sheriff, of the Marlboro police court, on charges of operating a car while drunk and three other traffic violations.

Harry Montague, 1823 T street northwest, and Rusell Palmer and Wilbur Clinton, colored, of Washington, were fined $50 and costs on charges of possession of twelve pints of whisky.

Miss Murphy's Pupils To Give Dance Recital

Miss Loretto Murphy will present her students in a dance recital at 8 o'clock tonight at the Wardman Park Theater. About 135 student dancers will participate in the program, which is the fourth annual presentation of Miss Murphy's studio, located at 5906 Connecticut avenue.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and his family are among the patronesses.

GAS MERGER ACTION AGAIN IS POSTPONED

No Quorum Forces House Committee to Adjourn, Sidetracking Issue.

For the second time in a week, a report on the Washington-Georgetown Gas Light Co. merger was blocked in the House District Committee yesterday, when a point of no quorum forced an adjournment.

Chairman Mary T. Norton indicated she will not call the committee together again unless she has the assurance of a quorum.

Yesterday's lack of agreement appeared to have definitely sidetracked the gas merger question as a special session issue.

Opposition was led by Representatives Carl M. Weideman, of Michigan; Thomas J. O'Brien, of Illinois, and Theodore B. Werner, of South Dakota (Democrats), all new members.

Representative Weideman said he had no objection to the bill providing an amendment was added to prevent sale of stock in the merged company to any foreign corporation. Wall street interests are dominating public utilities everywhere, he charged, adding that he intended to keep them out of Washington.

Mrs. Norton, who had assurance from Speaker Rainey that the bill would be called up in the House Monday if reported, openly criticized the attitude of her committee. She said never has she seen a subcommittee's action thus repudiated.

Police Rescue Man After River Jump

Police yesterday rescued Fenton H. Payne, 29, of 1302 T street southeast, from the Potomac when he accommodatingly jumped into the river, after hearing Policemen Edward Grimes and C. F. Fox discussing the practicability of dragging the river for his body on the strength of a report to the precinct Thursday night that he had disappeared from home. Payne's car was found abandoned near the south end of the Anacostia Bridge.

Payne, under the bridge, overheard Grimes and Fox discussing his case.

However, just as he struck the water Policeman Charles R. Snyder arrived on the scene, heard the splash and dragged him out.

$10,000 Suit Filed In Death of Son

Because of the death of his son, Claude Joseph Hodgkins, 11, of 2901 Seventh street northeast, the father, Claude A. Hodgkins, yesterday filed suit in District Supreme Court for $10,000 damages from Daniel Hurson, 1362 Hamlin street northeast.

Through Attorney A. L. Newmyer, the father charged that his son was fatally injured August 4, 1932, when he and some other boys were playing in a stone yard at Eighth and Franklin streets northeast, which is the property of Hurson. A crane fell on the boy, causing his death the following day.

The suit alleges that Hurson was negligent in that he did not protect his property so that small boys could not play on it.

ROOSEVELT LAUDED ON PEACE EFFORTS BY BAPTIST PARLEY

1,800 Delegates Cheer as Northern and Southern Leaders Meet.

Congratulations to President Roosevelt for his reconstruction and peace seeking programs were coupled with a denunication of the legalization of beer and wine in a letter drafted last night by the Southern Baptist Convention.

The letter will be presented to President Roosevelt this morning.

Dr. M. E. Dodd, of Shreveport, La., acting president of the convention, will head the committee which will call on the President. Dr. Dodd is heading the convention because of illness of Dr. E. F. Brown, of Knoxville, Tenn., president.

Dr. Dodd, in the keynote address of the convention, also proposed that President Roosevelt be requested to have the R. F. C. extend loans to colleges, hospitals and charitable institutions.

Slavery Rift Healed.

A high light of yesterday's session was the meeting, before the 1,800 delegates in the Washington Auditorium, of Dr. C. Oscar Johnson, of St. Louis, president of the Northern Baptist Convention, and Dr. Dodd. The two clasped hands on the platform while the delegates applauded.

The incident was symbolical of what will take place next Tuesday when Northern and Southern Baptists unite in convention for the first time in 88 years. The two groups split over the question of slavery.

Three Missionaries Speak.

Dr. Charles E. Maddry, executive secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, declared last night that the Baptists face as great a crisis as when the North and South split over slavery.

He stressed the need for advancing missionary work.

Three missionaries spoke—Dr. J. L. Hart, of Chile; Dr. John Lake, founder of the leper colony near Shantung, China, and I. M. Patteron, of Nigeria. Fourteen other missionaries were present.

A report was heard from Dr. J. T. Henderson, general secretary of the Baptist Brotherhood, and Dr. C. C. Warren, of Danville, Ky.

Financial Report Made.

The financial record of Southern Baptist churches was written in the report of Dr. E. P Alldredge, of Nashville, Tenn., statistical secretary. Gifts to the church in 1932 were $27,341,488, a loss of $5,276,040 over 1931, he showed.

Membership increased 121,574, being 4,066,140 in 1932. There were 236,855 baptisms in 1932, a gain of 15,802 over 1931, the report revealed.

W. W. Everett, moderator of the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches, made the address of welcome.

Pat M. Neff, former Governor of Texas, told the convention that if a moratorium is declared on religion civilization will be crucified.

Student Released On Baseball Count

James J. Sheehy, 18, 4711 Georgia avenue northwest, a student at St. John's College, was found guilty of "playing baseball in an alley" near his home by Judge John P. McMahon in Police Court yesterday.

He was released on his personal bond after promising not to commit the offense again.

When he was arrested several weeks ago, the boy charged that Policeman Henry C. Hinton struck him with his baton.

Hinton was acquitted on a charge of assaulting Sheehy when brought to trial Thursday and has been restored to duty.

4 Capital Youths Get Class Offices

Four Washington youths were named class officers at Catholic University yesterday in annual elections for the academic year 1933-34.

Frank Murphy, of this city, was elected head of the junior engineering class. Other Washington students selected were William Schuyler, treasurer of the graduating engineering class; Richard Boyland, secretary, the sophomore engineers, and George Lewis, treasurer of the same class.

Francis Schmehl, of Hyattsville, Md., was selected as president of the sophomore engineering class. Four classes holding elections included the senior academic, the junior engineering, sophomore academic and sophomore engineering.

Direct Actionist Gets It

Hungry Veteran Quickly Accommodated With Jail Shelter When He Hurls Stone Through Window With That Avowed Purpose.

Imagine the surprise of Policeman F. E. Kenney, of the Sixth Precinct, yesterday afternoon when a man stepped up to him while he was on duty at Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest during the bonus parade, and made the following inquiries in all earnestness:

"How much time would I get if I smacked you on the nose?"

"Say, Buddy," Kenney replied, "if you smack me on the nose you are going to the hospital instead of jail."

"Well, that's out. How much time would I get if I broke a window?"

"Well, that all depends," Kenney said.

The man stood thinking, obviously undecided. Kenney turned to take a look down the avenue. He had no more than done so, when the man grabbed a stone and hurled it through the window of the National Guard Armory.

"O. K.," he said, "arrest me."

And he was forthwith arrested for destroying private property. Col. Peyton Nevitt, of the National Guard, who witnessed the episode, filed the complaint.

While the man was being booked, Col. Nevitt asked: "What would you do if I should refuse to file a complaint against you."

"I would just go out and break a bigger window," the man naively replied. "I am hungry and I have no money. I want to get in jail."

So into jail he went.

He identified himself as Claude M. Mielson, 36, of Dayton, Ohio.

It was later learned that the man is a World War veteran and until recently was in a veterans hospital at Dayton. He was dismissed from the hospital under the new economy act restricting hospitalization to veterans suffering from injuries received in active service.

Mielson said he served 60 days at an encampment in Virginia and contracted rheumatism from conditions existing in the camp. He came to Washington Thursday and made an unsuccessful effort to obtain aid at the White House and the Veterans' Bureau.

DETECTIVE BARRETT ON TRIAL NEXT WEEK

Suspended Man Accused of Assault During Probe of Woman's Death.

Robert J. Barrett, suspended detective sergeant, will be tried next Wednesday in District Supreme Court on an indictment charging him with simple assault upon George M. Baber last year. The indictment is the remaining one of the series that followed a general investigation of alleged third degree tactics in the Police Department.

Barrett was convicted several months ago, but his conviction was set aside by the District Court of Appeals which held that the trial justice had erred in charging the jury as to the law governing the case.

The assault charge grew out of an investigation Barrett was making into the slaying of Mrs. Lizzie Jaynes, cashier of the Garden T Shoops, Eighteenth street and Columbia road northwest, who was fatally injured when one of a pair or armed gunmen shot her through the abdomen while attempting to rob the place.

Baber was bought for questioning, Barrett charged, and there was a mix-up which Baber claimed resulted in him being assaulted in his apartment at Thirteenth and Belmont streets northwest. The detective is on a suspended basis pending the outcome of the charges.

DONALDSON FACING 15-YEAR SENTENCE

Manslaughter of Brother Is Verdict; Course of Other Two Cases Uncertain.

Charles Donaldson, 52, today faces a maximum sentence of fifteen years in prison for the shooting of his brother, Silas Donaldson, in the Donaldson home at 932 Maryland avenue southwest, last January. He will be sentenced next week.

A jury in the court of Chief Justice A. A. Wheat yesterday placed that possibility over him when it found him guilty of manslaughter. The indictment on which he was tried charged him with first degree murder.

Through Attorneys Henry Schweinhaut and Lucian Vandoren, Donaldson pleaded, in his own defense, that he did not know anything about the shooting, that he was a victim of a "dream state" that rendered him unable to remember what transpired while the spell was on him.

At the same time he shot his brother, Donaldson, police said, he shot and killed Mary Donaldson, 15, and George Donaldson, 19, niece and nephew, respectively. The indictment on which he was tried is the only one resulting from the case, though Assistant United States Attorney Irvin Goldstein, who prosecuted the case, declared the Government had not yet decided what course it would take as to the other alleged slayings.

$10,000 FOR SEWAGE CHLORINATION URGED IN 1935 D. C. BUDGET

Gotwals Asks Sum for Two Months to Protect Users of Potomac.

Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, yesterday recommended the inclusion of a $10,000 estimate in the 1935 District budget for the chlorination of municipal sewage at the Potomac River pumping station during July and August, when the river is most used for recreational purposes.

Other recommendations to the Board of Commissioners, based upon a report by J. B. Gordon, sanitary engineer, are that dredging activities at Oxon Bay be stopped and that an advisory board of sanitary engineers be established to make experiments and estimates regarding the future treatment of Washington's sewage disposal.

The proposals were taken under advisement, as Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer and Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby had not had an opportunity to read the sanitary engineer's report.

Experimental Sewage Station.

The advisory board would set up experimental sewage testing stations for field study, prepare general plans for a treatment plant, recommend a site, and suggest a method of treatment, together with estimates as to all costs of the undertaking.

Whether the project will be pushed at this time, however, is questionable in view of the need for municipal economy. Maj. Gotwals in his recommendation had this to say:

"Were the District in its ordinary financial condition, this project should be put forward as suggested. In our present straightened financial condition, I am not so certain. Before sewage disposal plants can be built, the preliminary work suggested must be performed. It is likely that the demand for such disposal must be met within the next ten years . . . I would, however, again note that the pollution of the Potomac River is not pressing at this time."

Public Health Survey.

Sanitary Engineer Gordon gleaned some of his facts from the survey made by the United States Public Health Service, which found that the Potomac River from Fort Washington to the Three Sisters and the entire Anacostia River are unsafe for bathing because of the danger of contracting sewage-borne diseases.

Should the Commissioners consider the matter of bathing sufficiently important, he pointed out, either steps toward providing treatment of the sewage must be taken or bathing should be prohibited.

The cost of sewage treatment would be between $8,000,000 and $9,135,000, the report states. Continuous chlorination would cost approximately $300 a day.

The report points out further that the oxygen content of the river for a considerable distance below the sewer outlets during the summer is below that required to support fish life.

While no evidence of sewage pollution was found in Rock Creek, a high coli-aerogenes concentration was found due to the pollution coming from a highly developed residential area, particularly after a heavy rainfall.
